Lure to Leave Canada Can Be Checkmated

People of Dominion, Declares Dr. Tolmie, Must Again Secure Prosperity Through Protection

Big Colonization Agreement Needed

Definite Recommendations Made by Conservative Candidate—Loudly Applauded at Meeting

FIRSTLY, the people of Canada must be returned to a condition so prosperous that native sons and daughters will cease to be attracted by the lure of work in the United States, and secondly, Canada must be made sufficiently prosperous to attract immigrants from the British Isles and other parts of Europe before Canadians can hope fully to reap their heritage, according to Hon. Dr. S. F. Tolmie, Conservative candidate in Victoria, and Dominion organizer for the Conservative party, who spoke to a large audience last night in the auditorium of the Chamber of Commerce.

Dr. Tolmie declared that both immigrants and emigration depended on the creation of opportunity within the borders of Canada for the men and women to earn living wages. Industrial and commercial life must be stabilized and extended, and he was convinced that the only way to the solution of the policy of protection as advanced by the Conservative party, could such a state be reached.

"The broad issue, one might say the basic issue, of this campaign is nothing more or less than Canada's unsatisfactory economic and business condition," Dr. Tolmie said. "Despite all that has been said by the Prime Minister and his following, the man on the street knows only too well that we have been passing through hard times individually and collectively. In business, orders have been difficult to get and generally pitifully small when obtained."

Great Montreal Crowd Hears Prime Minister

MONTREAL, Oct. 19.—Montreal welcomed Premier King tonight with what he himself termed the largest political assembly ever held in the Dominion.

Seating accommodation had been provided in the huge Forum for 15,000 and not only was this taxed to the utmost, but above and behind the uppermost galleries there was a great crowd standing. Outside, another crowd, unable to get in, packed the street.

One Gun in Ajdir Holds Off Enemy Three Weeks—Empty Hillside Bombed—Battle Casualties High

Editor's Note—Vincent Sheehan, the only newspaper correspondent with the Riff army, has succeeded in getting courier through to Tangier with another series of dispatches. Like his first series of cablegrams three weeks ago, they shed new light on the remarkable warfare which the combined French and Spanish forces are waging in northern Africa.

Yesterday's dispatch showed that the Riff army had long prepared for the loss of Ajdir. When the Spanish entered the town October 1, a week after Mr. Sheehan had sent his dispatch, it had been abandoned three weeks by the Riff.

AJDIR, Sept. 24, by courier to Tangier, Oct. 19.—The French and Spanish fleets combined with their air brigades are now making their last determined effort to crush the Riff power before the winter season ends this year's campaign.

Here in the Ajdir region is where the nationalist leader established his capital four years ago. He is now making what may be his last fight for the independence of the Riffian nation.

The spectacle of this battle against the odds recalls legends of an older and more heroic day. For here again Arminius faces the Roman legions, and David defies Goliath. This dispatch is written on the hillside at Ajdir in the shade of a clump

Trio Killed When United States Army Plane Crashes—Crushed by Motors

CAPE MAY COURTHOUSE, N. J., Oct. 19.—Three United States army aviators fell to their death near here today when the Martin bombing plane in which they were flying from Mitchell Field, N. Y., to Langley Field, Va., crashed into the meadows after one of the two Liberty motors on the ship apparently went bad.

The men killed were Captain Robert A. Kinkaid, Charles S. C. Lieutenant Abbott C. Martin, Reading, Mass., the pilot; Staff Sergeant Joseph Coulson, Norristown, Pa.

Each aviator had a parachute strapped to his body, but the drop was so short as to preclude their resorting to them and all three were crushed by the heavy motors.

Rum Bullets Whiz Around Leviathan

Liner Finds Self in Battle Zone When Liquor Craft Hides Behind Her

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—Machine gun bullets whizzed about the steamship Leviathan as she anchored in quarantine today, during the chase of a rum-runner.

Two employees on the Leviathan said the rum-runners sought to use the big ship as a shield against the rum chasers' bullets. They told how the runners maneuvered their boat under the Leviathan's stern and raced alongside the starboard side within five feet of the ship. Trapped by a chaser from each end of the liner, the rum-runners sped for open water.

The outcome of the chase had not been learned when the Leviathan docked.

Rates Policy of Mackenzie King Cabinet Thoroughly Explained

Mr. Leon Ladner, Conservative Candidate in South Vancouver, Deals With Record of Liberal Government—Mr. Twigg Urges Need of Tariff Reform

FREIGHT rates and the equalization thereof, immigration, the tariff question and the means for development of a Canadian national spirit and a stronger connection with the other parts of the British Empire, formed the features of a spirited discussion given at the Conservative rally in the auditorium of the Chamber of Commerce last night, by Mr. Leon Ladner, Conservative candidate for South Vancouver, and Mr. H. Despard Twigg, third Conservative member for Victoria in the British Columbia Legislature.

Mr. Ladner, after prefacing his speech with a glowing tribute to Hon. Mackenzie King, the Conservative candidate in Victoria, in which he eulogized his worth as a man, a Canadian and as a legislator, dealt almost exclusively with the freight rates question. He explained many points which had to some degree become be-

Inquiry Will Be Held Into Hope Disaster

Marine Wreck Commissioner Captain J. D. MacPherson Receives Word Instructions From Ottawa

Captain Forrest Tells Own Story

No Trace Yet Discovered of Bodies of Seven Missing Men—Search Parties Scour Beaches

AN inquiry has been ordered by the Dominion Department of Marine and Fisheries into the collision of the tug Hope with the salvage Queen, it was announced yesterday by Captain J. D. MacPherson, Marine Wreck Commissioner, who is in receipt of instructions by wire from Ottawa.

The inquiry will be held in the Postoffice Building in a week or ten days' time, as soon as the necessary documents arrive. Captain MacPherson has submitted the names of Captain Basil Comber, formerly of the cableship Restorer, and Captain M. F. Cutler to the Minister of Marine and Fisheries as assessors at the investigation.

A fleet of tugs and gabatas scoured the Straits of Juan de Fuca during Saturday night, all day Sunday and yesterday, but no trace of the seven missing men had been found up till the time of the Colonist's going to press this morning.

Search parties on shore failed to find any signs of the men. The only discovery made was that of one of the lifeboats belonging to the tug Hope. It was found by Mr. A. Johnson, a fisherman, medical attendant. The 645 men were reported to have been seen by one of the survivors clinging to an upturned lifeboat.

Skipper's Story of Wreck
Captain Fred Forrest, of the tug Hope, told the story of the disaster yesterday while confined to his bed, medical attention. The 645 trip was the second one to the Emerald on Saturday, the captain said. The tide was low and the ship running at its speed.

A large bed of kelp lay upstream from the Emerald, while the salvage Queen was tied alongside with her bow facing out. Two screws were jammed forward against the Emerald. The widest point between the kelp and the vessel was 100 feet, while further in the bay it was considerably less.

Strong Earth Shock Registered in East

Tremors Originating Not Far From Ottawa Shake Atlantic Coast

BOSTON, Mass., Oct. 19.—The second earthquake to occur in the Eastern Canadian-New York-New England area this P.M., and the most severe in this district since the shock of February 23, 1925, was registered early today, said a statement issued tonight by the Engineering Economics Foundation.

OTTAWA, Oct. 19.—A strong earth shock from an epicentre within a few hundred miles of Ottawa, but the exact distance of which has not been determined, was recorded at the Dominion Observatory this morning. The first preliminary tremors arrived at 8:55.29 a.m., and were followed by a second continued for nearly an hour. A second shock, also from a comparatively nearby epicentre, was recorded, beginning at 7:04.11.

Principal of McGill University Delivers Inspiring Address at Victoria College in Connection With Annual Presentation of Scholarships

A YOUNG man's fitness for any profession must not be judged by the marks he is making at college. The point is: Have we developed his character; have we given him something that is worth while, something that will strengthen him and stimulate him for the uncharted seas; provided him with something that will give him not only a livelihood, but life; enable him to be alone and yet not lonely; to suffer and yet to smile.

And, finally, to make June roses bloom in the December of his life.

This is one of the several fine passages from the address given by Sir Arthur Currie yesterday afternoon, at Victoria College, to an audience composed very largely of students.

Being the least bit pedantic he struck a profound religious note which made a deep impression. It was a direct tribute not only to the underlying thought and the mode of

Seven New Treaties To Safeguard Peace Given Weary Europe

Locarno Results Published in Capitals—Main Pact to Be Signed December 1 at London by Britain, France, Germany, Italy and Belgium—Four Side Contracts Made by Germany and Two by France

Dominions Free of Obligation, Guarantee Agreement Stipulates

LONDON, Oct. 19.—The fruit of the Locarno security conference was put on display tonight for all the world to see, when seven treaties, which comprise Europe's newest and most promising preventive of war, were made public in the various capitals.

The first and foremost of the agreements is the security pact, or treaty of mutual guarantee, guaranteeing the inviolability of the frontiers between Germany and Belgium, and Germany and France, as fixed by the Treaty of Versailles. It will be signed at London December 1, and assuming that all the signatory governments ratify the pact, it will become effective when Germany joins the League of Nations.

Germany to Refrain From War
By the treaty Germany, on her side, undertakes never to trespass upon the soil of France or Belgium, or make any warlike gestures in the demilitarized Rhineland zone.

On their side, France and Belgium promise not to violate Germany's western frontier. Should either party violate the agreements set forth, the pact provides that Great Britain and Italy shall go to the aid of the aggrieved party, whether it be Germany, France or Belgium.

The powers parties to the pact agree to submit all their future disputes to judicial treatment, with the Council of the League acting as a court. The whole plan is to work under the aegis of the League. It is for that reason that the treaties do not become operative until Germany is a member of that organization.

Six Other Treaties
Of the other six treaties that have come out of the Locarno conversations, Germany is signatory to four, one each with France, Belgium, Poland and Czechoslovakia. They provide that each of her four neighbors to set up peaceful machinery to settle any disputes they may have with any of them that do not yield to ordinary diplomatic relief. These neighbors of Germany agree to submit any disputes they may have with Germany to an arbitral tribunal organized under the Hague convention of 1907, or to the permanent Court of International Justice.

Cancellation Commission Arranged
But, according to these treaties, before the parties resort to either of these two means of adjudging their differences, they may, by agreement, submit their dispute to a permanent cancellation commission of five members, one from Germany, one from the other party to the treaty, and three foreigners selected by the two appointees. These commissioners will hold office for three years and will have six months in which to decide any dispute.

If their decision is not accepted, the dispute will go before the League Council as the court of last resort.

French Treaties
The other two treaties are between France and her eastern allies, Poland and Czechoslovakia. They provide that if Germany fails to keep word with France, Poland and Czechoslovakia, and her failure to accede to an unprovoked recourse to arms, France and her two eastern allies also agree to lend one another aid, no matter what country should make an unprovoked attack on either of them, which the League Council failed to prevent.

The Treaty
LONDON, Oct. 19.—The text of the treaty of mutual guarantee which is Annex A to the protocol, initialed at Locarno, October 16, 1925, by Luther, Stresemann, Emmi Vandervelde, Briand, Austen Chamberlain and Benito Mussolini, says:

"The President of the German Reich, His Majesty the King of the Belgians, the President of the Republic of France, the King of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland and of the British Dominions beyond the seas and Empress of India, and His Majesty the King of Italy, anxious to satisfy the desire for security and protection which animates the peoples upon whom fell the scourge of the war of 1914-1918,

Tariff Lesson Taught West By Lean Years

Conservatives Revived and Militant Throughout Prairies Says Mr. Meighen—Sentiment Grows

SUDBURY, Ont., Oct. 19.—The Conservative party on the Prairies stands "revived and militant," and there is not one Conservative candidate there that does not expect to win. So declared Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen in the course of his campaign speeches in Chapeau and Sudbury today.

Mr. Meighen said that people in Eastern Canada who talked of the powerful tariff sentiment in Western Canada would be astonished if they could see tonight how much the West had profited by its experience with the disastrous low tariff policies of the last four years.

Mr. Meighen asserted that the Liberal leader had tried to prevent the formation of the Canadian National Railway as a national enterprise. The Liberals had opposed consolidation, knowing that if consolidation was not effected, the roads would go under the hammer.

"You know who would have bought them," added Mr. Meighen. "Yet Mr. King and his propagandists now accuse me of favoring amalgamation of the Canadian National with the Canadian Pacific. This is the goal I am trying to avoid. If anybody ever favored amalgamation it was the Liberal party, both in years gone by and now. In the last session, all the speeches favoring amalgamation came from the Liberal benches."

General Currie's address was the principal feature in a programme devised, in connection with his visit here, for the scholarship presentations, in the course of which Dr. E. H. Dr. Paul, in introducing General Currie, admitted that he could find no adequate language in which to pay tribute to the man who had, through his magnificent leadership of the

City Faces Big Expenditures in Next Few Years

Council Warned by Alderman Topp of Impending Necessity of Spending $700,000 on Public Works

Ald. Todd warned the City Council last night that Victoria faces the necessity of spending $700,000 "within the next few years" in one he had road block and steel water pipe replacement.

The warning was uttered in the course of the discussion centring around Ald. Todd's startling proposal for the disposition of various civic properties, such as the Willows Park, Elk Lake, and so on, as outlined in Saturday's issue of The Colonist.

Ald. Todd suggested that his proposals be referred to the heads of civic departments for consideration and report before the Council itself considers them formally.

Because the 1925 assessment had been lowered ten per cent, Ald. Todd said, the Council would have to "make a terrific effort" to achieve its aim of reducing the mill rate for next year.

The finance committee had recently received two memoranda from the city engineer regarding large expenditures facing the city. In one he had said that the wooden block pavement would have to be renewed in the course of the next few years at a cost of $200,000. He had advised that the city build up a fund to cover the cost of this project by levying for $35,000 each year.

The city engineer had also warned the committee that the expenditure of $500,000 would be necessary in a few years' time to provide for the replacement of steel pipe in the water distributing system in the city.

He was opposed to borrowing the money for these projects, the speaker said.

If these works must be carried out and I am convinced they will have to be, I think the requisite money will have to come out of current revenue," he declared.

The proposals seemed to be more peculiarly the concern of the council of 1925, Ald. Brown declared. He suggested that the Elk Lake golf course project be submitted to a vote of the ratepayers.

Ald. Todd replied that many of the suggestions could not be put into effect without the consent of the ratepayers and that he brought them forward now to expedite eventual action.

He had himself intended to bring forward proposals similar to those advanced by Ald. Todd, declared Ald. Marchant. He wanted to bring a partial Greater Victoria scheme into effect.

Mayor Pendray asserted that he had proposals of his own which he desired to be considered by the council at the time Ald. Todd's suggestions were debated.

The Todd proposals were tabled to allow of their consideration by civic officials.

Native Son Dies In Southern City

Mr. William Wilson, Member of Pioneer Family, Well-Known Years Ago in Business

At San Diego, California, the death occurred on Sunday of Mr. William Wilson, second son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Wilson, of this city.

A native son of Victoria, Mr. William Wilson was known to a wide circle here. Although it is more than thirty years since he ceased to live here, his memory is still fresh in the minds of his friends and new through the several members of his family living here.

Only last June he was here to attend the funeral of his younger brother, Mr. Biggerstaff Wilson.

Educated at Boys' Central School, he entered the firm of Rhodes & Jannion, one of the big wholesale houses of former days which occupied a place on the waterfront. Later he went into the firm known as Cowan & Wilson, which subsequently became Wilson Bros., when Mr. Cowan withdrew from the business. His special bent was accountancy, and it was in this capacity that he left Victoria more than twenty years ago to go to the tin mine fields in South America. After a year there he returned north, joining the Heinze smelter at Butte, Montana.

Besides the widow, there survives an adopted daughter, and three brothers, Mr. Joseph E. Wilson, Mr. H. Goulding Wilson, and Mr. Charles E. Wilson, and one sister, Mrs. Church, all living in Victoria. Mr. Charles Wilson was with him at the time of his death.

Hon. S. F. Tolmie Answers Criticisms About Public Works—Victoria Received Five Times as Much in Conservative Rule as From Liberals

Answering criticism that he had not been active in developing the harbor and other public works of Victoria to take advantage of the trade of the Pacific, Hon. S. F. Tolmie declared at the Conservative meeting last evening at the Chamber of Commerce that the commercial situation assured much larger business for Victoria in the future than in the past.

"Harbor development was begun at the Ocean Docks under the Conservative Government before my time at Ottawa," he remarked. "The Government expected that the people of Victoria would develop what it had begun. I hesitate to have to refer in this connection to one or two things. One of the first matters after my election in 1917 had reference to Pier Two. I went East within two months of my election, and was successful in securing $50,000 for the warehouse. Then I secured the preparation of plans for the coal piers, which were objected to by some prominent citizens as not feasible, though I have since seen them working well at Sault Ste. Marie. With regard to elevators, I discussed the matter often with the Chamber of Commerce, have seen Sir Henry Thornton on that matter, and also have worked for the lumber assembly plant. These things take a little time."

A Tunnel Project
"A tunnel was suggested at the entrance of the harbor, and the matter was submitted to the engineers of the Public Works Department. We found it would have to be at least fifty feet below the level of the sea, and as the sea was about thirty feet deep at low tide, the tunnel would have to be about eighty feet below the grade, beginning at Victoria Arm, and coming out at Brodie's Ledge. We have also carried out work at Hospital Point."

"The charge is made that I am not interested in harbor work in Victoria. I have here some figures. In the period of the last Unionist-Conservative Government, 1917 to 1921, we spent in harbor improvements in Victoria $1,611,942, while from 1921 to 1925 the sum is $205,607. I expect the Times will next explain that $205,607 is more than $1,611,000 (laughter). With regard to the mud dredging, I can show plenty of correspondence on that matter. It is probably due to the elections that these mud manoeuvres are proceeding now."

Oh! That Siren
"There are some things for which I am not responsible. I am not responsible for that siren. (Laughter.) I have never asked any blacksmith on the dredges to go to a drugist before he could get a job. (Renewed laughter.)"

The Drydock
"The most agreeable work that I have done for this riding at Ottawa has been to aid people who seek assistance in pressing claims on the department. I have done my best, irrespective of party, to help them. In many cases I have been successful."

Dealing with the cessation of work on the drydock after the King administration took office, he asserted that the shutting down had cost $135,000 in wages to over 300 men laid off, and the Government also had to pay $70,000 compensation to the contractors. He had consulted Mr. McQuarrie and had learned that the work could not have permanently closed down, so the loss was inexcusable.

Lure to Leave Canada Can Be Checked

"Our railway deficits must be met by greater volume of traffic and the sparsely settled areas along the railway lines must be filled with active producers. Better business, more business and more people are the only effective cures for our railway ills."

"The Government says it has reduced taxation. I ask you: Have your tax bills grown less in the last four years? They tell us that they have cut the taxes of living. Money people I know say that the only cut they have felt is the cut in the standards of living, not in the price of living. Money is very necessary and some luxuries of life is a long sight better than an infinitesimal cut in the price of shoes and woollens, and no money to buy what is needed."

Local Settlement Needed
"Our railway burden, the tariff controversy, and the immigration failure are all major issues in this campaign, because upon them hang the great issue of getting our economic and business affairs on a sound and healthy basis. The emigration of our people, particularly of our young people, must be stopped. Waste, extravagance, unnecessary duplication and expenditure in our railways and everywhere else must be stopped. But when this has been done we shall have failed to meet the paramount issue, unless we undertake and carry out an aggressive and constructive immigration policy which will secure real settlement on our vacant lands."

"I am not," continued Dr. Tolmie, "a pessimist. I believe there is any need for pessimism in Canada, possessing as it does so much vacant land capable of tremendous increase in agricultural development almost everywhere. We know that in the British Isles, in Scandinavia and generally in northern Continental Europe, there are homeless, land-hungry people who would jump at the opportunities our poorest farms offer. We have millions of acres of people-hungry land. There is and can be no good reason why we should not be able to satisfy both."

"In the House last session on two occasions I expressed very definite opinions on the necessity of colonization, and on the course of policy which should be pursued. I wonder how many people in Canada know that the British Government has set apart an area of $15,000,000, which still has at least ten years to run, and, therefore, amounts to $150,000,000, which they are holding out to Dominion, including this Dominion, as a stake with which to set up their people in agriculture within the Empire? They offer to us a certain means of getting thousands of good British families backed up by millions of good British money."

"What is the Government waiting for? Surely they do not think that the '3,000 Family Scheme' of a year ago is a colonization policy. As a demonstration, a gesture, a piece of advertising, it is all right."

Substantial Agreement Needed
"It is manifest that the first step of colonization activity is to get a substantial and extended agreement with the British Government, one that would not rest with 1,000 families a year, but one which would place as a minimum at least 30,000 new British people on our lands each year or 100,000 in a five-year agreement. That would be worth while."

"Furthermore, if such an agreement

Don't Squeeze Black-Heads—Dissolve Them

Squeezing and pinching out blackheads make the nose large and eyes irritated. Blackheads are caused by accumulations of dirt and dirt from the skin, and there is only one safe and sure way and one that never fails to get rid of them—simple way, too—that is to dissolve them. Just get from the chemist a bottle of source of persimmon powder—sprinkle a little on the face, wet cloth—wash off the blackheads with a few seconds—wash off, and you will be surprised to see that every blackhead has disappeared, and the skin will be left soft and the pores in their natural condition. (Adv.)

Conservative Candidate In Laval, Quebec Province

MR. ALBAN GERMAINE, K.C.
Conservative candidate for the constituency of Laval, Quebec.

Minnesota and Wisconsin have drawn in the United States.

"Finally, there is the American field. We are spending annually more than $500,000 on staff operations there. We have travelling exhibitions all the way from Florida to our own border. We have agents and sub-agents in states too numerous to mention, and what result are we getting? Figures on the arrivals and the value of their effects are strained to the breaking point in an effort to make a showing, but how much land settlement are we really getting? In this same field both our railways are operating; extensively and it is a field where they have every advantage in operating."

"The prospective settler from the other side knows conditions on this continent. His methods of farming are largely our methods, and his machinery is the same. He does not have to be safeguarded, nor do we have to protect him from agencies merely seeking traffic."

Why Not Use Money in Europe?

"Why then cannot the Government get the railways together and say: 'The American field is so specially yours and you are able to do immigration work here so effectively and cheaply in conjunction with your other traffic work that we feel we should leave this to you. Let us save our expenditures here and use them in Europe where better results can be obtained. If you want our special assistance in any way, we will be glad to give it—especially in advertising and in expediting the movement of land-seekers. We want to save the half-million dollars a year which we are spending on agencies where you can do the work as well and better than we can do it. We want to use that money in Europe and in establishing settlers here. Let us get together and effect an arrangement that will be business-like and get results.'"

Recommendations Named

Dr. Tolmie, "that:

1. An agreement be closed with the British Government by which we would get a minimum stream of at least 30,000 British people on the land, backed by British money. With these will come twice as many more on their own account."

2. Cut down separate British immigration agencies and concentrate on a central selection staff with special temporary winter lectures in country districts, these lectures to be Canadian farmers who came originally from those districts. With the money saved concentrate on northern continental European work."

3. Reviving the ancient and well-founded system of actually putting the settler on the land with means of getting started."

4. Make direct approach to the Scandinavian governments to secure a large share of their migration, which is leaving every year."

5. Investigate the east side Baltic people."

6. Get our two railway systems in conference with the object of cutting out their expensive and largely unnecessary agency expenditure in the United States, but co-operating in the fullest measure with any lead the railways desire to make."

Loud and sustained applause came from the large audience as these proposals were presented to them by Dr. Tolmie.

Gale at Cordova

CORDOVA, Alaska, Oct. 19.—A terrific gale in Cordova Saturday night moved the school building six feet, wrecked the baseball grandstand and blew down scaffolding on a new high school building. Falling trees tore electric and telegraph wires.

CIVILIZED PEOPLE AGE EARLIER THAN SAVAGES

One would think it would be the other way about. But this would leave out of the picture the effect of civilized peoples' denatured foods. Savages live upon foods just as nature provides them, thus they retain all their body-building properties. Civilized peoples refine out of their most important foodstuffs, the grains, their most important building materials, the mineral salts, vegetable fats and vitamins. Thus civilized bodies cannot so well stand the wear and tear of daily life, and they soon begin to grow old. White flour, refined "ghost cereals," white sugar, and refined syrup and other "denatured" foods do their work well in prematurely aging their votaries."

This aging tendency can be overcome to a great extent by resorting to natural, unrefined foods. Dr. Jackson's Roman Meal is a natural whole grain food, made from whole wheat, whole rye, flax and bran. It compensates the deficiencies of white flour, "ghost cereals," etc. Roman Meal renewed the youth of Dr. Jackson, its inventor, to such an extent that while at 55 he was a wreck, at 65 he won a 1,300 mile bicycle contest from a man 30 years younger, actually ran away from his young competitors.

Roman Meal has 1,600 food units while beef has only 552. Roman Meal is thus seen to be the best body-building and strength-producing food known. You ought to use Roman Meal. At grocers. (Adv.)

Ex-Brewer, Now Mission Worker, Fears Death at Gangsters' Hands

Founder of London East End Institution Anticipates Violent End—Would Leave Body to Hospital—Medical Authorities in Quandary

LONDON, Oct. 19.—Anticipating a violent death from one of the gangs in the East End of London, F. N. Charington, founder and honorary superintendent of the Towers Hamlet Mission, has offered his body after death for dissection by students at the London Hospital. Charington states that his life has been repeatedly threatened recently because he rescued two youths from the clutches of the gang in question.

Lord Knutsford, who is chairman of the London Hospital, refers to the recent case of George Henry Thomas Carle, the Englishman who died shortly after he had been deported from Toronto to London, whose wish that his body should be given to a hospital for dissection was not acted upon by his executor.

Hospital Authorities in Quandary

It was stated in the Carle case that it had not a legal right to the disposition of his body after death, and Lord Knutsford is wondering if it is true that Charington cannot leave his body to the London Hospital as he wishes to do.

Lord Knutsford, in acknowledging Charington's offer, says it saddens him to see the elaborate funerals of poor people. He is leaving directions, he said, that nobody shall attend his own funeral except his nearest relations.

Brewer Becomes Mission Worker

F. N. Charington is a member of a famous family of brewers. Many years ago, while he was passing a public house in the East End of London, he saw a drunken man knock a woman to the ground. Charington, looking up, saw his own name over the door of the house. He went in and found the family of brewers supplying the beer to the place. He straightway resigned all interest in the brewery business and took up mission work in the same district.

Leichter, of Buffalo, and formerly of London, Ont., told a business men's group in Toronto, Ideals in business, he said, were advancing, but in politics they were respected little or not at all.

War Memorial Honors Memory Of Artillerymen

Huge Crowd, First Gun to Fire at Germans, and Two of "Original" Horses at Ceremony

LONDON, Oct. 19.—A huge crowd witnessed the unveiling by His Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught, Runcy, the Royal Artillery war memorial at Hyde Park Corner, commemorating the 49,078 artillerymen who died in the Great War. The dominant feature of the memorial is a tiered structure which supports a stone howitzer. At the base of the memorial are four bronze statues of artillerymen, one at each side, a striking figure being a dead artilleryman covered with a cloak.

Behind the figures at the base are detailed bas-relief panels showing artillery in action.

Duke Given Ovation

The Duke of Connaught met with a great ovation and was received by Gen. Sir Leslie Huddle, Colonel Commandant of the Royal Artillery. Rudyard Kipling's "The Recessional" was sung by the Woolwich Garrison Church choir, and trumpeters sounded a general salute. The Duke inspected the guard of honor, which was furnished by the Royal Artillery depot at Woolwich. Then, in a brief speech, he paid warm tribute to the devotion and heroism of the artillery in the war.

General Lord Horne placed at the foot of the memorial a wreath which was carried on the gun from which the first British shell was fired at the Germans on August 22, 1914, and at which the first casualty among the gun detachments occurred.

"Original" Horses There

A pair of horses which led the gun team went to France with "the first hundred thousand" and served throughout the war. They were Sir George Milne next to a wreath at the foot of the memorial on behalf of all ranks and "in treasured memory of our comrades of the artillery of the great overseas Dominion who fought in close comradeship and died side by side with us in the Great War."

Subsequently the base of the memorial was heaped with flowers and wreaths by relatives and friends of the fallen.

Captain Forrest ordered the engines stopped when off the first point to the northward, and the vessel drifted down the stream. He intended to slacken her way by warping alongside. The vessel was heavy on the wheel and went with the current. He was trying to slacken the ship's speed. It was just as Captain Forrest rang for speed ahead again that he noticed the wheel did not answer his touch and that the tug was in the grip of the boiling tide.

Drifted Bow On

The Hope drifted bow on to the Salvage Queen and the set-out of the tide swung her stern around. It was then that her skipper ordered full speed astern in order to avoid hitting the Salvage Queen. But when he saw her swinging around, he ordered her ahead again to try and work out alongside the salvage ship. She did not respond, and as the tide was setting her back he rang astern, thinking to get her clear.

The wheelhouse of the Hope was bumping the counter of the Salvage Queen at this time and Captain Forrest was afraid that the rip would pull her under the stern of the Salvage Queen. The propeller was pulling astern when the vessel was drawn under the ledge rope of the Keadyk. When he realized nothing could be done, the captain tried the wheelhouse door, but finding it jammed, crawled out of the port side. The vessel was listed at an angle of forty degrees. He saw the rope hanging over the side of the Keadyk and yelled to the men to grab it. He grasped the rope himself and was rescued by men who had put out in lifeboats from the Salvage Queen and Keadyk.

Praises Engine-Room Crew

Captain Forrest was emphatic in his praise of the engine-room staff, who, he said, stayed at their posts to the last possible moment. They answered all orders sharply and the skipper said he could not thank them enough. Captain Forrest has been plying in coast waters since 1912, and this was the first time he had commanded the tug Hope.

Mr. James Duncan, who is one of the missing men, leaves a widow and six children to mourn his loss. He resided at 122 Michigan Street, and met in Saanich, as was first reported.

Eleven Men in Riff Town Bluff French and Spanish

left in a Riffian battery firing busily on the fortress. Altogether it makes a pretty continuous din, which interferes seriously with conversation.

This is a great pity, for the garri-son and I have a little private joke which we like to exchange frequently. The joke is either at the expense of the Franco-Spanish forces or the Riffians, but anyway it is extremely funny.

Eleven Men Defend Town

Here it is: The total strength of this garri-son against which the night of France and Spain has been exercised for the past three weeks is exactly eleven men. That is counting me, who does nothing but look on, and two telephone men who do nothing but talk. There is also one cook boy about twelve years old, who is always lying down groaning with a headache. That makes seven actual fighting men here at Ajdir. They are artillery and infantry combined and the crew on the Spanish cruisers will bear witness that their aim is good.

Against these seven men are concentrated about one-third of the French and Spanish fleets, practically all the fire from Alhucemas fort, and twelve hours daily bombing from airplanes. The Franco-Spanish allies never have less than three planes bombing here and once yesterday afternoon they had seven.

Total Force 100 Men

The real force, where every available able-bodied Riffian is concentrated today, lies four miles further west toward Cape Moro Nueva, but the French and Spanish do not seem to know it.

The artillery here, and further around the semi-circle of hills which edge Alhucemas Bay, make such a brave showing that the allied commanders evidently believe Ajdir and other posts are heavily garri-soned. It entertains us to imagine what the French admiral would say if he knew that his fire and air bombs are being wasted on barren deserted hillsides.

The total strength of the defenders of all posts around Alhucemas Bay does not exceed 100 men, all artillery men. The civilian population was ordered to retire September 8, when the present action began. The military force was concentrated at Cape Moro Nueva under the command of Abd-el-Krim himself. The French and Spanish are still being held off effectively by these 100 gunners.

Battle Casualties Heavy

The actual Riffian infantry front lies across the peninsula called Cape Moro Nueva, western horn of the land edging Alhucemas Bay. Spanish transports, under the protection of the fleet, landed more than 5,000 infantrymen on Cape Moro Nueva September 8, after vain attempts to land had been made at Wad Lau Tgias and Sidi Driss.

The landing was accomplished in the morning, after a heavy rain, during which both the Riffians and Spanish lost heavily.

The Riffian troops, under Abd-el-Krim, retired about 300 yards, where they dug themselves in. In the battle which then began has lasted continuously day and night ever since, and the Spanish have succeeded in advancing over ground yielded by the Riffians, to a point where they have been stationary for the past four days, despite desperate efforts by the French fleet and bombing planes to aid their advance.

Holy City Raided

I arrived at Abd-el-Krim's field headquarters on Cape Moro Nueva shortly before noon September 23, after six day's journey across the mountains from Targhault to She-shuan the holy city of Western Morocco, where I was present at the French air raid September 17.

The holy city has suffered comparatively little from bombardment, although raids have been frequent since the combined French and Spanish attacks began on all fronts. From She-shuan, Riffian troops have crossed the Beni Haid to Beni Boufra, the beginning of the real Riff. In the Beni Haid country the sound of cannonading further south was distinct, and I encountered several detachments of reinforcements marching to the Beni Zeroual front and the Riffian losses there have been heavy.

Deserters Flogged Publicly

At Beni Boufra, the day before yesterday, I witnessed a night almost unknown in the Riffian struggle for independence—the punishment of deserters. Four men, one of them an officer, were caught at Beni Boufra returning home without leave from their units on the French front. They were stripped naked and beaten with heavy knotted leather whips until they lost consciousness. This terrible punishment was witnessed by a crowd of some fifty or sixty Beni Boufra men grouped before the Government office there.

Early yesterday morning I started for the Cape Moro Nueva front. It was almost eleven when I reached the area covered by bombing planes. Here, about an hour's drive from Abd-el-Krim's field headquarters, I caught up with a supply train going to the front, about twenty miles away. The wagons were loaded with bread and half with cartridges. The train was in charge of a dozen boys ten to twelve years of age, who trudged along stolidly indifferent to the planes overhead.

About noon the trail arose from a hollow to the hill top, directly behind the Riffian front lines. Here there was unopposed activity.

The presence of a telephone line indicated that this was the headquarters of Abd-el-Krim himself. It is an ordinary Riffian house, built of irregular stones, standing on the top of a hill surrounded by a cactus.

Spies and guards stood at attention before the door, and at the side crouched three nondescript Europeans in Arab clothing over a wounded negro who was moaning noisily. In front of the house a group of Riffian soldiers squatted in a circle about one of their fellows with a headache. They were evidently employed in the air to keep the flies off the dying man and talked indifferently across the body.

Behind the house were some thirty Spanish prisoners at work digging caves or dugout shelters. Further down the hillside twenty French prisoners were similarly employed. They were all well, but were a dirty, unshaven and dejected looking lot. The poor devils worked in their holes until the planes actually started bombing the hill top, then the prisoners were marched out to less certain shelter, while Riffian officers entered the caves. This morning, regularly throughout the afternoon and one prisoner was killed by a bomb later on.

Senator William Roche Dies After Long Illness

HALIFAX, Oct. 19.—Senator William Roche, aged eighty-three, of Halifax, died at his home here at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon, following an illness of several months. Senator Roche was extensively engaged in steamship and coal business and was regarded as one of the leading business men of the community. He was of loyalist stock, his grandparents having come to Sherbrooke, N.B., from New York in 1871. He was born and educated at Halifax and spent most of his life here.

He was a member of the Nova Scotia Legislature from 1912 to 1917, and represented Halifax in the House of Commons from 1900 to 1908 and in 1910 was appointed a member of the Senate.

Logger Fights Charge Of Theft Of Launch

VANCOUVER, Oct. 19.—Omission in a warrant committing Alex. Gallagher, a Stewart logger, for trial on a charge of bringing into Canada the gas launch George B., which had been stolen in Alaska, to recite that he was the thief, is the ground for his application in Supreme Court for his discharge on writ of habeas corpus. The case was heard and adjourned until Wednesday.

John Regan, of Hyder, the Alaskan mining town near Stewart, B.C., alleged that the launch had been stolen from him and on December 12, 1923, brought into Canadian waters.

Gallagher avers that he bought the boat in the Fall of 1923 from a man who has since died.

SIR ARTHUR'S VISIT

Sir Arthur Currie, Lady Currie and their daughter come to revisit Victoria as old friends. It is always felt here that they are essentially Victorians, for Sir Arthur himself spent twenty years here and it was from here he set out on the Great Adventure which brought him fame as a soldier and reflected prestige on the Dominion of which he is a native son. Sir Arthur now, as Principal of McGill University, is one of the Dominion's leaders of thought. He is very much in demand as a public speaker and it may be said to his great credit that he never omits the opportunity of setting the highest ideals before the Canadian people. He realizes that, from one occupying the position he does, much is expected in setting a standard of thought. What he is doing in this respect is reflected in his various public utterances.

His connection with McGill University has enhanced an already great reputation which that seat of learning enjoys. Sir Arthur, indeed, has succeeded in identifying himself with the public estimate of his capabilities and leadership. His leadership stretches far outside the confines of the Montreal University, for it is Canadian-wide in its scope. He is one of Canada's greatest sons, one who is living up to that reputation in every respect and one who is a factor of virtue force in the country's progress. To Victorians the career of Sir Arthur Currie has been a matter of keen pride and they have followed his fortunes always with enthusiasm. The wish has often been expressed that he would revisit this city more frequently, but that is a wish not easily realized because his university duties keep him so much in the East. He and his family are heartily welcome on the present occasion and the only regret being felt is that their visit cannot be a longer one.

CONFLICTING FIGURES

The Department of Immigration at Ottawa has instituted a special tabulation of statistics as regards Canadians returning from the United States after six months absence. The figures published must always be considered in relation to similar figures published by the American authorities. The Canadian authorities indicate in the figures they publish in the premises that returning Canadians desire to re-establish residence here. On the other hand the American figures point to the conclusion that those who return to this country are only returning to arrange permanent residence for their families in the United States.

A table of comparison of Canadian and American statistics regarding persons returning to Canada from the United States during the period from April to August, 1924, show very wide discrepancies. The Canadian record is given as a record of all Canadians returning from the United States whereas the American record is of persons leaving the United States for permanent residence in Canada. The comparative table showing the figures month by month is as follows:

1924	Canadian	American
April	4,087	265
May	4,936	215
June	4,720	259
July	5,127	199
August	4,991	191

Which figures are people to believe? For the five months under review the Canadian authorities say that 23,861 Canadians returned from the United States, and the impression is given that they returned to re-establish their residence in the Dominion. On the other hand the American authorities, who presumably have a complete check on those who leave their country, claim that but 1,128 Canadians left the United States from April to August, 1924, with a view to taking up permanent residence in Canada. The figures are wholly dissimilar and should be explained.

RELATED LEGISLATION

It may be taken for granted that, as usual, the Government's programme of legislation for the coming session of the Provincial Legislature will be delayed until the eleventh hour. Just as in the past few years it will be brought down when there is but little time left for discussion and examination. The Ministers of the Provincial Government are busy campaigning in the interests of the Liberal candidates in the Federal election. The Legislature opens on November 2, and up to October 29 Premier Oliver and his Ministers will be greatly preoccupied, to the extent, indeed, that they cannot give adequate time to Provincial business. The Provincial Government is a Government, of course, which should concern itself about provincial affairs, whose members are paid for their purpose, whose constitutional functions, indeed, contain no provision for wholesale injection in Federal party matters.

It is an unwritten law, however, that Provincial Governments do participate in Federal election campaigns. There is little or nothing to be said against the practice, provided always that it is not overdone to the detriment of provincial business. The point, therefore, is that on the eve of a provincial session such a practice may be abused and that as a result of abuse the people of the country may have just cause of criticism, because, owing to neglect of duty, half-baked legislation appears on the provincial statute books. There was very severe and legitimate criticism last year and the year before on account of the Provincial Government not having its sessional legislation prepared in time. This year, owing to the preoccupation of the Ministers because of platform engagements and sub rosa activities in the Federal political arena, the likelihood exists that legislation will be more belated than ever. That is a consideration which is of concern to the people of British Columbia, and which it is well within their right to criticize.

TRAFALGAR DAY DANCE

The activities of the Ladies' Guild for Sailors are always prominent but it is only at intervals that they come to the attention of the public at large. That Guild, however, is heard of as a rule in some way or other in connection with the anniversary of Trafalgar Day, and this year its enterprise takes the form of a dance to be held tomorrow night at the Alexandra House. The Guild is responsible for the well being of the Connaught Seamen's Institute among its other work and the coming dance is for the purpose of raising funds for the benefit of that institution. The need of looking after the interests of seamen when ashore does not grow any the less. It is a perennial need and there are indications that with the growth of port development, owing to expected progress in improvements at the Ogden Point piers, that the work of the Ladies' Guild will be an increasing one.

The Connaught Seamen's Institute is in great need of funds. The demands on it are growing. The possibility of adding another storey to the building is being seriously considered, and if the funds were available that improvement could be effected. Victorians have always been sympathetic towards the needs of seamen and we are sure that they will show that sympathy by a large attendance at the Alexandra Club tomorrow. It is fitting that the Trafalgar anniversary should have been selected as the date of the event. It is in the nature of a commemoration of one of the most decisive of sea victories, and a reminder, therefore, throughout the Empire, of what the British people owe to those who uphold their prestige on the waters.

Mr. Mackenzie King says that the tariff issue might have been left altogether out of account in the present election campaign. Well, he is the head of the Government and Protection is the outstanding issue of the campaign. It seems, therefore, that it was Mr. Meighen who made the issue and the certainty of this is apparent through the fact that the Liberals everywhere are on the defensive whenever tariff matters are discussed.

The Fordney tariff of the United States, high as it is, does not appear high enough to afford the protection to all industries that is required. The cattlemen of the Western States want hides to be put on the dutiable list. Tanners engaged in the manufacture of calfskin are asking for protection against German imports, and Senator Cameron of Arizona goes so far as to advocate a tariff of 50 cents a pound on copper. The country is definitely pledged to the tariff protection it has and the results of that barrier have justified every hope of prosperity.

The London Daily Express says: "The pull of the city over the country was never so great in the history of the world. The rural population is decreasing everywhere—in the United States, in Australia, in Canada, from 68 to 50 per cent in 25 years—and in England, and the urban population is increasing. How can we turn our surplus urban population into agricultural settlers? It can be done, but the task calls for the larger vision, for the exercise of courage, and the capacity to think in big figures by those entrusted with the business of knitting the Empire together by other than sentimental ties."

Mr. E. L. Patenaude, the Conservative leader in Quebec, says: "The duty of Canada is to have protection for her industries, so that we may keep here the money which we have earned by the sweat of our brows, for the benefit of our families and our homes. If we let our money go, we will not get true value for it. Our sons will follow our money as they have followed it for some years past; our farms will be deserted, our factories will be closed to their workmen, and the country will slowly fall into a state of collapse. We are at a dangerous turning point in our history and it is the duty of the province of Quebec to lift up its voice in favor of the country and not of a party. Let us raise ourselves sincerely to the heights of national interest. Let us urgently demand the application of the policies of Cartier, inspired policies of Canadian aims which alone can aid and save us."

Note and Comment

By R. B. D.

"Behold it is a goodly and a pleasant thing for brethren to dwell together in unity." We are not positive that the above is a literally correct rendition of the passage, but the point of importance is the application of counsel of wisdom. The municipality of South Vancouver is a place of considerable importance. It has attained the dimensions of a city and is still growing, and growing rapidly. It is quite big enough "to live its own life," to achieve its manifest destiny. It is the eldest of the offspring of Vancouver proper. If South Vancouver were content to remain mistress in its own house it might in course of time rival or even surpass its parent and actually become the chief of the Cities on the Inlet.

Yet South Vancouver is eager to efface itself. It is asking for reconsideration of the question of annexation. Vancouver has already voted upon that question and declared itself opposed to annexation. Such action upon the part of Vancouver was rather surprising to people who know anything about the Vancouver spirit. In rejecting overtures for annexation the voters of the City of Vancouver established a record. Never before did they refuse anything offered to them as a gift. In fact, the people of Vancouver have attained a certain amount of notoriety as a consequence of their habit of appropriating things belonging to their neighbors.

Yet Vancouver had an opportunity to increase its population by forty thousand souls, and that opportunity was cast aside as though it were of no particular importance. With the City of South Vancouver incorporated within its boundaries, the other surrounding municipalities would soon have been knocking at the door of becoming a member of the big municipal family, and when the union was completed Vancouver would have been entitled to the distinction of the third city of Canada in point of population, with the prospect of ultimately becoming the chief city in Canada.

Opportunity is again knocking at the door of Vancouver. South Vancouver is again praying for annexation. It is doing that because it desires all the conveniences and advantages necessary to good health and fullness of life in places where thousands of people are gathered together. It does not charge Vancouver with appropriating things which are common property, and should be reserved for the general use of all communities. South Vancouver is willing to pay its fair share of the charge of providing municipal conveniences and luxuries.

Vancouver rejected the original application of South Vancouver for annexation because the ratepayers of the larger city thought they might have to pay too big a price for the glory of ultimately becoming the largest city in Canada. South Vancouver was for a time in the hands of a receiver, is still encumbered with a heavy load of debt, and a considerable expense of it is in a raw state. That is the reason why Vancouver rejected the scheme for annexation. The ratepayers of Vancouver were averse to assuming responsibility for the financial affairs of South Vancouver. A new and brighter light has since been shed on the financial position of South Vancouver, and the probability is that annexation of the two municipalities will be consummated during the coming year.

The people of Victoria and immediately surrounding districts are doubtless interested in the affairs of their neighbors. If they are not, they are not human. All healthy human beings are interested in the affairs of their neighbors. We admire the manner in which the people of Greater Vancouver order their affairs. Those people are animated by a true communal spirit. They have had some trifling differences of opinion about the question of a common water supply, but there has been no petty squabbling about the prices charged for water or about the cost of establishing a water system of assured capacity. They are all proud to be known as citizens of Greater Vancouver, and they are all united for the promotion of the interests of Greater Vancouver.

The Lady of the Billboard announces that the clock is her cook. There she sits, in the pretty picture, all dressed up with nothing to do but keep her eye on the timepiece. We suppose the joint is in the oven, the potatoes are in the pot, the pudding is in the pan, and the kettle is on the boil, and at the appointed time the dinner will be ready to be served.

But even all these interesting things do not mean the complete emancipation of the lady of the house. After dinner has been served and eaten, there remains the task of washing the dishes, which is probably the most distasteful domestic task of all. Even more men have sometimes been compelled to clear away and wash the dishes, and some of them know what an abhorrent job that is.

Well, we are told that the problem of how to conduct a household without washing dishes has been solved. The solution was found in electricity, the mysterious force which is doing miraculous things, and which seems destined to accomplish the complete emancipation of women. Electricity is already sweeping the floors as well as cooking the meals; but an electrical device has been perfected which practically does everything that is necessary to be done in the house, even to washing the baby. Just touch a button, and the machine will do the rest. The women already have votes, and are sitting in the legislatures. Presently they will be in a position to devote all their time to study of public questions—and to cast "intelligent votes."

Where Cats Overrun the Town
In the little town of St. Ives, on the Cornish Coast, every tourist or visitor gets a little shock of amazement at the spectacle that presents itself. Cats are everywhere—underfoot, scurrying about, sunning themselves, washing their paws and generally occupied with the duties that make up the life of a cat.

We might, perhaps, on first glance think that this abundance of cats was a nuisance. There are few of us who would care to have more than one or two cats about all the time. Even the most enthusiastic cat-lover would not care to have a hundred cats about him. But among the people of St. Ives there could be no such thing as a superabundance of cats. They encourage the growth of the feline population with every means at their disposal.

The inhabitants of this strange little town explain the phenomenon in this fashion: The town is very old. Some of the houses, indeed, are 500 years old. And the fishing gear, which is very precious to this fishing village, is stored in the basements during the winter months.

The implications are obvious. Where there are old wood and dampness there are likely to be rats. The cats are the protectors and saviors of the industry of the town.

There is one peculiar thing about the cats of St. Ives. They do some fishing on their own account. They romp over the sands and prance out among the waves. They will watch a shallow pool for hours until some small fish or crab emerges within reach and then pounce upon him. There is an old rhyme that is frequently sung about St. Ives and the visitor finds that the contents have the virtue of being true. It is:

"As I was going to St. Ives,
I with a hundred wives,
Every wife had seven sacks,
Every sack had seven cats,
Every cat had seven kittens,
Kittens and cats and wives,
How many were there going to St. Ives?"

You can easily see that the cats and their offspring were far in the majority in the crowd.

"Horse Sense"

By LOUIS J. ATHERDEN

"Use a little horse sense." A very appropriate expression and no doubt very useful advice. It is followed. In fact it more people used that element of brain power known as "common sense" or "horse sense," there would be far less accidents than there are, and possibly a greater element of success in all things.

On a stormy day, with the wind blowing hard and the rain beating against the window panes and making rivulets in the gutters, a horse, though uncomfortable, is not nearly as uncomfortable as a man.

There is a very intelligent member of animal society who stands in the blind-rain, dripping, snorting occasionally, his iron-shod feet, and watch with his great sparkling eyes a man struggling futilely against the gale. His umbrella doing his best to keep him dry, he is, his coat wrapped tightly affectionately round his neck and his hat either over his eyes or tearing madly down the street. Funny? Well, yes, for the horse, but not for the man.

Which all points to the fact that a man is a fool quite often and a horse very seldom. For instance, human beings have a habit of sometimes kicking their best friends in the ribs, as it were, and feeling sorry afterwards. Did you ever see a horse kick a dog? Sometimes perhaps, but never under such a very good reason. I have seen horses that were considered exceedingly dangerous, animals that would kick a man to death provided they were given the opportunity, and yet they would not give a thought to a dog curling up within two inches of their hind feet. The horse knows his friend and the dog's instinct tells him that there is no danger in his action.

This instinctive sense of danger or safety was vividly depicted in the Great War. Horses taking ammunition and provisions up the line seemed at times to have no fear when there was almost certain death in nearly every step. They would shake their heads in irritation as machine gun bullets buzzed violently past their ears and then, without a moment's hesitation, they would lunge forward and land a hundred yards from them. The snort may have meant anything, but it may quite reasonably have meant: "Can't you shoot straighter than that, you dummies!"

Animal Intelligence
Perhaps the most startling example of animal intelligence, or shall I say "horse sense," was when the ammunition column lined up at a cross-roads preparatory to advancing into the danger zone. Prior to their halt they would proceed with absolute nonchalance, giving no thought to the thunder of guns from ahead. But at the cross-roads they seemed to wake up and take a remarkable interest in their surroundings. They would wait impatiently for their time to proceed and as the wagons moved off at thirty-yard intervals the "thams" waited for nothing. Straight from the mark they jumped and tore "hell for leather" up the road apparently with the very earnest desire of making Berlin in ten flat.

One may be led to judge from the foregoing that each horse found out the danger for himself and acted upon his own initiative. That may be so, but a horse which learns quickly by nature, and by nature cunning, will very quickly impart his knowledge to others. I recall an incident which I heard some time ago—told of in a story in the Cariboo District. The party had set out from a small town and pitched their camp on the ground to be about twenty-five miles from the town. All went well that night, but the next morning someone brought out one of the instruments and in five minutes every pack horse the party possessed was stampeding wildly for town. The horses were old at the game and they knew what the instruments meant, but the members of the party were not exactly thrilled with the prospect of a twenty-five-mile hike every day, so the instruments were discreetly hidden until the horses were properly under control.

"No," said my informant, "we got bitten once but we didn't figure on it happening again. But they'd seen the instruments and they did it again, not once, but three times."

"How did it come about," I asked him.

"Well, it was like this. There was one pack horse called Tommy. He was the darndest horse for tricks I ever saw. He knew everything. The same night we got them back we figured on keeping them there, so Bill tied their right fore feet to their bridles. They could graze that way all right, but they couldn't run or walk except on three legs. Well, we thought there was no danger of them 'beating' it then so we settled down and slept comfortably.

"But, by gosh, in the morning there wasn't one of those horses in camp. No, sir, not one. We had to do our little hike again and the people in town told us the whole blamed lot came tearing in on three legs."

Tommy's Guile

"It had got beyond a joke now, so we hit on a better idea. This time we tied their forelegs to their back legs so they couldn't move at all over a mile an hour. That seemed good enough, but we decided to watch them anyway. This time the brutes fooled us while we were looking at them. It was Tommy again who led them and he did it right before our eyes. This time he had his own special way of doing things.

We used to light a big fire every night and pile green wood on it to make it smoke, so that the horses could keep the flies off. They would wait around while one of us made it and stand right over it in the smoke when we had finished. Well, on this particular night we never noticed anything was wrong. Tommy wandered round the fire and finally stood right over it. After about five minutes he shifted over on the other side of the smoke. Then one of the others did the same thing, and they kept on till the whole lot had been through. But they didn't go, oh Lord no; they just stood there waiting for something—a signal I guess it was. Well, it came all right.

Tommy gave a loud neigh and the next thing we knew the whole gang was out of sight down the road. Yes, you guessed it; they burnt the ropes. Tommy showed 'em how and they all just naturally followed him."

"This was too much for us so we decided after another little twenty-five-mile stroll to fix those horses for good. This time we cut down six trees, pretty good size ones, and about a foot in diameter, and tied a horse to each one good and tight and went to bed. But by gosh, the next morning—don't smile, I'm speaking the truth."

"I can't help smiling," I replied. "Are you going to tell me they dragged those logs back to town?"

"You bet I am and they sure did; too. The whole lot went twenty-five miles with a log apiece right into town. And Tommy led 'em with the biggest log of all."

The Rev. F. A. P. Chadwick, of St. John's Church, conducted the service and the hymns sung were "Nearer, My God, to Thee" and "Rock of Ages." Many worshippers, including friends present and a profusion of beautiful floral designs covered the casket, bearing testimony to the high esteem in which the late Mr. Woolley was held by his many friends. Five of the late Mr. Woolley's sons and Mr. George L. McInnes acted as pallbearers and the body was laid to rest in the Royal Oak Burial Park. The late Mr. Woolley was a native of Ontario, aged sixty-one years, eleven months, and lately resided at 1329 Johnson Street.

Canadian forces during the war, set his name for all time high among the great names of history. Sir Arthur's decorations were recited.

Approves Bursaries
Sir Arthur began by congratulating the college on having secured so many scholarships and bursaries in its short existence. Bursaries, he thought, were splendid things, as they often enabled a young man or woman to get higher education than they might otherwise have been able to do. Furthermore, they were fortunate to have in their mind so generous-minded a citizen as His Honor Lieutenant-Governor W. C. Nichol, whom he had promised if he ever came to Montreal, "should be stood on his head until he delivered every dollar that he possessed."

—From The News, Dayton, Ohio.

"I am very interested in this work of higher education, among young men and women," pursued Sir Arthur in more serious vein. He was glad there were parents present, because he wanted to remind them that they must not leave the higher education of their boys and girls entirely to the universities. These parents were perfectly justified in wanting to know what the university did with their students during the four years. To his mind they must not judge the success of the young man or young woman by the marks they made at college. The function of the college was to build character, to give wisdom rather than learning, to give them the training which would fit them, like the soldier's training, for the time when they had their marching orders.

Diverse Destinies

"Some of you are going straight to the top; some of you are going to fail and fall. But if you fail it is very largely your own fault," he continued. "It would mean a flight to scale those summits. But those who would live must strive, no matter, must be true to the best traditions of the country."

"Do you ever ask yourselves what you are after higher education for? Are you here to gain knowledge alone? If you are you would be better advised to go home, for if you seek knowledge alone you can find it in the Encyclopaedia Britannica. Or are you here to gain intelligence, something that will fit you to command a higher price in the world? Let me tell you: the world needs something more than intelligence in its men and women. Before the war Germany led the world in intelligence. Education put in the hands of a man who doesn't know how to use it is just as dangerous as a bomb in the hands of a savage."

Character

The object of education was the development of character, which Sir Arthur defined as the sum total of all the influences and experiences of life. Intelligence might be put to base uses in the hands of the wrong person. The purpose of education should be to teach one to act consistently, to will nobly, to create a new desire, to give direction to one's thoughts. "You come to college to study truth, if that is properly done you will not only speak the truth but you will live the truth," said Sir Arthur, recalling the motto over the gates of Harvard: "Ense petit placidam sub libertate quietem." "Depart and serve your country and your kindred."

The idea of service must lie behind it all. Let the student get at his college all that will enrich his personality, and then let him go out and place this at the disposal of his fellows. He who did this would be a blessing of new traits, not a follower of the beaten path.

"Victoria College, young as it is, has some traditions. Keep your humility in this world of egotism; and never lose your faith. Behind you there is always some sacrifice; before you there is always some hope," said General Currie, who in conclusion quoted an old phrase of the French peasants whom they used to pass on their way to the fighting line: "Good luck, my friend, and may the good Lord protect you!"

When the long applause had subsided, Mr. George Jay spoke a few words of thanks to Sir Arthur Currie for having so kindly gone to the college to address the students.

Coroner's Jury Finds George Duncan Took His Life While Insane

That he met his death by his own hand while temporarily insane was the verdict reached by the coroner's jury which investigated the death of George Duncan, whose lifeless body was found hanging in a partially-finished room at 1427 Edgeware Road, Cedar Hill, Saturday.

The inquest was held before Dr. E. C. Hart, coroner, yesterday morning. The principal evidence bearing on the tragedy was that given by Dr. J. W. Lennox, who had been called in after Mrs. Duncan had found the body hanging in the upstairs room.

Dr. Lennox testified he had attended the man at different times and that the latter had been in the hospital for a time earlier in the summer. He had since shown a morbid tendency and everything indicated he had taken his own life.

R.A.M. and R.C.M. Exams—The Montreal secretary of the Associated Boards of the Royal Academy of Music and Royal College of Music, Mr. Waring Davis, died suddenly last night, naturally, disappointed in the affairs of the office very considerably, and one of the consequences was that the Victoria certificates were sent direct to all the teachers instead of to the Vancouver office as had been intended. Under the circumstances, and in view of the inconvenience occasioned last year for the same reason, it has been considered wiser not to hold the board's public presentation this year. It is, however, that the usual function will be held in 1926.

Children's Colds

Are Quickly, Pleasantly Relieved by Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine.

If children's colds are not rid of promptly there will be less tendency to pneumonia and consumption in later life. It is the neglected, hanging-on cold that weakens the lungs and develops into serious trouble.

No treatment for coughs and colds was ever so popular with the children as Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. It is so pleasant to the taste, so delightfully soothing and healing and affords relief so quickly that children soon turn to it instinctively when choked up with a cold or annoyed by coughing.

It is mother's favorite treatment for cough and colds, for she knows it will bring relief when the midnight coughing spasms set in. It is wise to always have a bottle at hand for prompt use in emergency. (Adv.)

Fears for Missing Man's Safety Felt

Mr. William Dunk Has Not Been Seen in City Since Friday Afternoon

Fears are entertained for the safety of Mr. William Dunk, who was first reported missing, Saturday. He has not been heard of or seen, police say, since 2:30 o'clock on Friday afternoon, when he was observed outside the Carnegie Library.

The police are in possession of the following letter written by Mr. Dunk to a relative, Mrs. Topsy Weber:

"Topsy Dear:—I cannot ask you to forgive me, but please try and think kindly of me sometimes. I am almost crazy, as it's the only thing I could do. My money is gone and I don't feel fit to work and support you. Please go back to Harold and things will be better for you there than before. I am going on a long journey and few ever come back. Do whatever you please with my things. Take what you would care to and leave the rest. I shall not need them.—Will."

A description of the man as last seen is as follows: About sixty years, 130 pounds, weight, five feet three inches in height, good looking and well dressed, short grey moustache, slightly bald, dark eyes, wearing a fawn-colored raincoat, black suit, brown shoes, white shirt and collar.

Mr. West and his son have been closely associated with radio for a number of years and have made close studies of all its branches. They intend to arrange a series of demonstrations as soon as they get settled in their new quarters and invite radio-phans to come and listen in.

In addition to the accessory department and receiving sets, the firm will carry Brownings-Drake, All-American and B. T. complete radio sets. The latest models of the King Quality receivers, including the tuned radio frequency set and the licensed neodynes are also for sale.

The firm is also one of the local dealers for the Fada neodynes.

General Currie Meets Graduates

Lunches With Graduates' Society of University of Which He Is Principal

Lieut.-General Sir Arthur Currie addressed the McGill Graduates' Society at a luncheon at the Empress Hotel yesterday afternoon. The principal of McGill University was cordially greeted when introduced by the chairman, Dr. W. L. Cline.

General Currie explained the progress made with the fund of $6,400,000 subscribed five years ago for extensions of the university, of which more than $5,000,000 has been paid in most of the sum being applied to the endowment fund, less than $2,000,000 being used for new buildings under the agreement with the Rockefeller Foundation.

In the arts course 2,800 students are now registered, and no enlargement is proposed, he explained. Only forty per cent of this number is from Quebec. Those who make up the other sixty per cent are from all the provinces of Canada, with 150 from the United States, thirty or forty from Great Britain, and others from South America, South Africa, New Zealand and many other parts of the world. These figures indicate that McGill is more than maintaining its standing as an international university.

The commerce school is growing, while the medical school, with its limit of 500 students, takes only 100 new men yearly, the 1925 entrance being selected from 500 applicants. Many coming from the Old Country, West Indies and other parts of the world.

In the department of medicine $60,000 yearly has been devoted to a complete clinic, which commenced operations last year.

Announcement was made that there will be another McGill reunion next year.

Chinese Stool Pigeons Testify in Gaming Case

In the police court yesterday, Lee Tuck and twenty-eight other Chinese charged with being in a place where gambling was being carried on, pleaded not guilty. The accused are represented by Mr. Stuart Henderson and Mr. H. W. R. Moore. A part of the evidence was taken yesterday morning, after which the case was adjourned until Friday.

The case is complicated in view of the fact that two Chinese "stool pigeons" were employed in the getting of evidence. Chief of Police Fry said that these two men, Louis and Wong Sing, were known to him and had been employed in a special way by other large corporations.

These men testified that fan tan was played and that there was a "rake-off" in connection with the game.

It is the cut of a frock that counts! And in this graceful, rippling flounce a tiny voice cries out "I'ai l'esprit vivant!"

We saw this frock at Biarritz recently, silky and shining, made of soft yellow crepe. We saw it again, dancing at night in the Bois, different this time softer, more demure, of a cut—blue, rose, flame, peach, jade—all would be smart in georgette, crepe satin, flat crepe, crepe de Chine, Canton crepe or crepe de Rome. White, cream or bisque lace is especially lovely, with flowers of ribbon in harmonizing pastel shades. In New York recently was worn a somewhat similar frock of this pink georgette, a new shade on the order of ashes of roses.

St. Mary's Scene Of Pretty Wedding

Miss Lois Mellor Weds Mr. Wm. Grimm—Reception at Home of Bride's Parents

A simple but pretty wedding was solemnized last evening at 8 o'clock at St. Mary's Church, Oak Bay, when Miss Lois Olivia Mellor, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mellor, and Mr. William H. Grimm, was quietly married. The Rev. A. E. de L. Nunne officiated.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in her gown of white georgette, heavily embroidered in silver and crystal beads. Her veil of rose point lace was carried over her head in cap effect with orange blossoms, and fell in graceful folds on train. She carried a shower bouquet of white roses from the valley and maiden hair fern. The matron of honor, Mrs. F. J. Pontes, of San Francisco, was gowned in pink broadcloth, trimmed with silver lace and ostrich. She wore a pale shaded band of tulle in her hair and carried an arm bouquet of pale pink carnations and ferns. Miss Alice Mellor, sister of the bride, wore a dainty frock of French silk crepe, trimmed with sequins. She also wore a band of tulle in her hair and carried pale pink carnations. Mr. James Daly was best man.

During the signing of the register, Miss Grace Watson sang "All Joy Be Thine." Mr. Wickett was at the organ.

At the reception which followed at the home of the bride's parents, Mrs. Mellor, gowned in silver crepe, except that of Hon. C. C. Callantyne had called Mr. Boivin into consultation, together with Sir Robert Borden, in Montreal, and had offered on behalf of Mr. Meighan any portfolio, except that of finance and railways.

"I do not desire to reflect in any way on Mr. Boivin's sincerity in making this statement, but he is under a singular misapprehension so far as I am concerned. I was never authorized to offer Mr. Boivin a portfolio, nor did I make any such offer."

New Air Machine Lands Anywhere; Could Carry Mails to Housetops

FARNBOROUGH, England, Oct. 19.—The helicopter or auto-gyro invented by Don Juan de la Cerva made a third successful flight today, achieving a speed of seventy miles an hour, then hovering in the air and landing gently in almost vertical descent.

"It needs no piloting skill whatever," said Captain Courtenay, who flew the machine.

The inventor tried about thirty designs before designing the present type. He said today that the auto-gyro needs a take-off space of only twenty yards, and will be able to land on a ship's deck or carry mails to the centre of a city and alight with them on a platform erected above the buildings.

The Gilded Rose

By MAY CHRISTIE

WHEN WHO IN THE STORY ROSELYN RIDGWAY learns as her wedding day from the news that she has been married for her money. Before her enormous fortune was left her, she had been an over-worked little drudge in her father's inn.

LANDIS RIDGWAY, her husband, is a brilliant, fascinating man, who was forced into the marriage by his mother. Roselyn, loving her husband, knows he is still in love with

LYDIA HARBROOK, a beautiful, cold, spiteful woman bent on marrying STEVIE VAN VORST, a wealthy old man.

Although she is really fond of Ridgway, ROSELYN RIDGWAY, a timid man of the world, has seen Roselyn but once, and yet is deeply interested in her. Lydia, because of this interest, and she and Roselyn conduct a plot whereby Roselyn and Harbrook will see a great deal of each other, and Lydia will have a share of the money.

LYDIA, finding herself often alone with Roselyn, falls under her spell once more, and decides to use her influence for her own ends.

MARIETTA FERNANDEZ, a dancer, and a woman who is really fond of Roselyn, is a friend of Lydia's. She comes to New York, where Marietta, her sister, is a famous dancer, and she leaves a clear field for the elder woman.

In the country at the Ridgway place, Roselyn, in a fever of passion and anxiety over the protracted disappearance of her husband, makes the acquaintance of Lydia. After an exciting adventure she is rescued by Roselyn, who is in the country to account for his proximity to the scene.

LYDIA, however, is not content with this. She, too, is a woman of the world, and she is not content with a garden party with him. She is a woman of the world, and she is not content with a garden party with him.

CHAPTER LXV

A Phone Call

"I am disgusted with Lydia Harbrook," said Mrs. Ridgway, senior, to her daughter-in-law, after Lydia's all-night escapade with Landis on the island. "I am more disgusted than words can express. When she came back at eight o'clock this morning, I'd have ordered her out of the house, had I been in my shoes!"

"They couldn't have helped it. The boat drifted off with the tide. Such things do happen."

"Lydia was at the bottom of all that!"

"Landis is fearfully upset and worried about it all," defended Roselyn staunchly. "And of course it's on Mrs. Harbrook that the scandal really falls."

Mrs. Ridgway, senior, snorted.

"Her shoulders are broad enough to bear it! Does she care?"

And she went on to tell her daughter-in-law how one of the maids had found a syringe in the visitor's room, and how she herself had searched there until she found a little packet containing a whitish powder.

The local drug-store proprietor had identified the stuff as cocaine!

"I've often wondered," she continued, nodding sagely, "how Lydia managed to maintain such a seemingly high spirit! And I've also puzzled over her sudden fits of depression and silence? This explains it!"

"Don't tell anyone," said Roselyn, quickly and generously. "She intends to give the habit up. I mean—that is—" and the girl broke off, vexed that she had inadvertently let slip the other's secret.

"So you knew about it? Then why on earth didn't you tell Landis?"

Roselyn flushed vexedly.

"It would be such a mean—advantage." Then, conscious of the oddity of this remark, since she was Landis's wife, she added, hurriedly:

"I am sorry for Mrs. Harbrook."

"Spare your pity for a worthier object, she has small money on you, my child. Not that you need think there's anything between her and my son! He may have been indiscreet—and most men are—in the hands of a pretty and designing mix, like Lydia—but he is honorable."

And the haughty dame stooped suddenly and kissed her young daughter-in-law with tears in her proud, dark eyes.

Roselyn was touched. Thrilled, too, by the other's words.

But indeed she had been hurt by Landis' escapade. That the incident was on every idle, chattering tongue made it all the harder, for pride was wounded.

"Mr. Harbrook and he have gone to New York today. I'm sure it's because Landis was to avoid Lydia," said the mother. "They're both returning tomorrow, and I think they're hoping Lydia will be gone. I shall give her a broad hint."

"Most of the crowd are due to leave today," replied Roselyn. "On the whole, last night's party was a huge success."

"Except for the cocktail raft," the other supplemented, with a little "moue" of distaste. "But we know who engineered that! Bohemianism can be carried too far."

The young hostess went off to look up trains, and attend to her guests, and give the orders for the day.

Her thoughts dwelt on Landis. Rupert Harbrook had been vexed for her sake over the wagging tongues of gossip.

He had indicated, with virtuous and yet not overdone disapproval, that a check ought to be put on a husband's "strayings."

Under the influence of that sympathy, Roselyn had confided in him the tale of the Spanish dancer's visit to Royal Cliff, and the queer, distraught way in which the foreign girl had wandered off.

"She was so unhappy. I'm afraid she may do herself an injury. Her face haunts me. It was so beautiful, so tragic. I can still see her big, mournful eyes, with a whole world of sorrow behind them."

If she had seen Harbrook's face at that moment, subsequent events would not have happened.

But when her gaze did light on him at last, those handsome features of his were mask-like.

"I wouldn't worry," he spoke in staccato tones. "Landis can't help being attractive to these women."

Though a hint not to lead her on any further might be amiss. As you say, Marietta Fernandez might do herself an injury, for these foreigners are all emotion, all impulse."

That had been all.

But Roselyn was sore at heart. Most of the guests left after luncheon, and at half past six a "long distance" telephone call came from New York.

"I wanted Landis to return with me to Royal Cliff tonight," came the suave tones of Harbrook on the wire, addressed to Roselyn, "but it seems he's been on a theatrical party to be given in a flat in town. I think it's best to stick by him—so expect us back tomorrow, will you? And forgive my calling up, but I thought it might relieve your mind."

Mass Meeting at Parkville Protests Appointment Made to Liquor Store

PARKVILLE, Oct. 19.—In reference to the appointment at the Government liquor store at Parkville a mass meeting was held here on Thursday last at 8 p.m. In spite of fog more than 200 people attended.

The chairman, Mr. Robert Craig, called the meeting and the secretary read the minutes of the previous meeting, which were adopted. Major R. J. Burde wired his inability to be present.

Mr. Colin MacKenzie gave the delegates' report of their interview with the Attorney-General, and Mr. Twigg, M.P.P., Victoria, said that course was the best one to take. It was then resolved to sign a petition to that effect, and a committee was formed to protest to a definite and satisfactory conclusion.

More than $30 was taken up for expenses, any surplus to go to the Women's Institute's welfare fund.

After the meeting adjourned Mr. Pooley was asked to speak. He declined to make this a political matter at this time, but congratulated the residents on the manner in which the meeting was conducted. The petition will be forwarded to the Lieutenant-Governor as soon as possible.

Death from Starvation!

That's the Fate that Awaits Every Moth-Worm that Tries to Live on "Sani-Bilt"

IN their search for a method of permanently mothproofing furniture, a group of scientists and industrial chemists discovered that moth-worms need a certain food element called "Keratin," which is present in wool, feathers, fur, and many other materials. Without "Keratin," a moth-worm could not live. It is as vital to them as milk is to a baby.

Remove the "Keratin" or make it uneatable and moth-worms could not live on mohair, wool, feathers, fur and other materials that moths use for food.

These men found it useless to use poison. Liquid arsenic, for example, soon dried into a powder and evaporated into the air. Other poisons lost their strength in time and left the "Keratin" still there and the materials an easy prey for moths.

But patience was at last rewarded. After years of study and research, a chemical compound was found that changed the "Keratin" and made it useless as a food for moth-worms. Not being able to eat the "Keratin," the moth-worms could not exist on materials treated with this compound.

This chemical compound and the process of applying it to the materials not only changes this "Keratin" into an uneatable element, but it can never change back again to "Keratin." Thus, fabrics and fillings given this process of moth-proofing are forever mothproof. As long as the materials last, they are permanently mothproof. Death from starvation awaits any moth-worms, that by any chance, happen to get on any material mothproofed by this process.

Furthermore, this mothproofing process does not injure materials in the slightest. It is colorless, odorless and does not change the appearance or feel of the fabric.

If you are invited to buy other mothproof suites, just ask these questions:

1. Are they mothproofed by a poison?

2. Are the fillings as well as the coverings mothproofed?

Remember, poison wears off or evaporates. Death by starvation—the Snyder process—is the only permanent method. Also, remember that the fillings must be mothproofed, as well as the coverings. Merely spraying bug poison is a make-shift.

Look for the Snyder "Sani-Bilt" trademark under the cushions, also the Guarantee Tag attached to each chaise longue and chair. Then, you'll make certain of permanently mothproof upholstered furniture.

ALL YOUR FOOT TROUBLES
 "You will never see them again after using Reudel Bath Saltrates. No excuse now for suffering from corns, calloused, tired, tender, aching feet."

Cutting the top of a corn off with a razor or burning it off with caustic lotion, blisters, etc., doesn't do any good. The root just sprouts right up again, and soon your corn has a brand new top on it, bigger than ever. The top is only dead skin anyway. The business end of a corn is the little pointed part, or core, that extends down into the toe. That is what hurts when it presses on sensitive nerves, and it is the part you have to get out, you a while longer. Softens callouses the same way, then scrape off, and I don't dare tell you how quick this medicated water, made with Reudel Bath Saltrates, will always drive chafes, blisters, etc., away, and even cure rheumatic or gouty pains. It would sound too good to be true, but thousands can tell what wonderful stuff "Saltrates" water is.

NEWS OF THE SPORTING WORLD

Pollitt and Fielding Make Ring History at Nanaimo

Saturday's Fight Best Seen There in Years, With Result in Doubt Right to End—Victoria Boxers All Make Good Showing in Ring

The main event of Tommy Moore's boxing tour, which was staged at Nanaimo on Saturday evening, proved to be one of the most closely-contested fights that has been witnessed in the up-island city for a number of years. The style of the two contestants proved to be that of a boxer, Fielding, pitted against a rugged brawler in two-handed fighter in the person of Harry Pollitt. The result of the contest was in doubt until Referee Moore held up both fighters' hands and declared it a draw at the end of the eighth round. The Nanaimo boy was a strong favorite for the championship honors by virtue of his powerful showing at Vancouver against the best boys at his weight in the Northwest. Victorians also, who had followed Fielding's activities in the ring since his commencement a few months ago, did not conceive the local boy much chance against his more experienced opponent, especially when they learned that Pollitt had handed out an artistic trimming to the flashy colored boxer, Jackie Newman, a few weeks ago.

Aggressive Milling
At the commencement of the contest the Nanaimo boy started in with an aggressive style of milling and it looked as if he were out to end the fight in record time. Fielding, however, weathered the fierce onslaught and started to work his left hand on the Nanaimo boy's face, with the result that he soon had the claret flowing and at the end of the round retired to his corner in good condition. In the second and third rounds Pollitt kept traveling at a terrific pace and tried his utmost to land a K.O., but the Victoria boy, who was smiling continually, kept his jaw well under cover and stabbed his opponent with straight lefts, alternating with an occasional left uppercut. The footwork of the Victoria boy was splendid, and at no time was he in difficulties. At times he would execute a series of sidesteps that made Pollitt fan the air in a ridiculous way. The Nanaimo boy began to slow up considerably, while Fielding was content to box him and refused to take any chances. He kept jabbing his left to Pollitt's nose, which looked to be in a very bad condition. The balance of the fight was a repetition of this round. Pollitt kept boring in, while the Victoria boy acted, apparently, from instructions from his corner, refused to change his style and kept his opponent at a distance where he could use his left hand to advantage. At the end of the contest Judge Henderson, of Nanaimo, marked his paper in favor of Pollitt, while Judge Hatstone, of Duncan, marked his in favor of Fielding, and Tommy Moore, referee, rendered his decision in favor of Pollitt.

Nose Needs Doctor
Billy Davis, who accompanied his proteges to Nanaimo, immediately tried to sign Pollitt up for a ten-round bout with Fielding to be staged in Victoria under the auspices of the Victoria Boxing Association. D.

Bowlers Organize For Coming Season

President Chislett Re-elected—Full Entries in Commercial and City Leagues Assured

A meeting of members of the City and Commercial Bowling Leagues was held last evening in the Pemberton Alleys, when organization was effected for the coming season by the re-election of President C. Chislett, and the election of M. Hunter and F. Moore as vice-president and secretary-treasurer, respectively.

Assurances were given of the entry of at least a half-dozen good teams in each league, and the local maple-amashers are enthusiastically looking forward to a bumper season. The handsome Pitt-Rivers trophy, won last season by The Colonist team, is again up for competition, and some spirited battles will be seen for its possession. It was resolved that matches in the City League should be rolled on different nights from those in the Commercial League, so that all bowlers in each league will have the assurance of being able to obtain their favorite ball. This will avoid a lot of annoyance that has been present when two different matches were being rolled the same evening.

Team captains should enter their teams with the secretary as soon as possible, so that league schedules may be drawn and the season got under way at a further meeting to be held in the near future.

Halifax Road Race Run in Record Time

HALIFAX, Oct. 19.—John Miles, youthful Sydney runner, who won the annual Herald and Mail ten-mile modified marathon road race, held here Saturday, covered the course of city and suburban streets through a driving rainstorm in the fastest time ever achieved by any runner since the annual event was inaugurated in 1907. His time was 53:48 2-5.

Macon Is Winner of Argentine Classic

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 19.—The Grand Premio Nacional, Argentine's turf classic, was won on Sunday by Dr. George Mitro's unbeaten colt Macon. The race was at 2,500 metres (a little more than a mile and a half) and was worth $40,000 to the winner. Macon covered the course in 2:36 3-5.

"Hello, Perkins, where did you get that black eye?"

Kelley, however, who manages the Nanaimo boy, refused to sign a contract for this bout until Pollitt's nose had received medical attention. He expects that he will have to undergo considerable treatment, and he intimated, however, that as soon as he is in condition to fight again he will allow him to meet Fielding again in a Victoria ring.

The other bouts in which Victoria boys competed, with the exception of the bout between Sherwood and Moore, proved to be keenly contested. Alvin Dwyer put up a most creditable showing against a boy who was considerably taller and heavier. Joe Townsend, the Nanaimo boy, proved to be a most creditable fighter, and scored lots of aggression. The Victoria boy, who apparently was not able to use his usual style of long-range boxing against his larger opponent, used great strategy, and time after time drew his opponent to the ropes, where he would take the rebound and land forceful punches on his plucky opponent. In this contest also the judges disagreed and Referee Piper declared it a draw.

Dave Lewis, who battled Billy Townsend, emerged victoriously after four rounds of fierce milling against a strong, rugged boy who outweighed him considerably. Lewis made a great hit with the up-island fans and demonstrated that he is one of the best bantams in the Northwest. Lewis today is in great demand and his services have been requested at both Seattle and Vancouver. His occupation, however, is such that he cannot get away from Victoria for any length of time, and consequently he has had to refuse the matches.

Wins on Foul
Percy Sherwood, the other Victoria boy, had an easy victory when he won from Billy Muir, of Nanaimo, on a foul in the first round. Moore, who is a shifty type of a boxer, had landed a glancing shove type of punch on the Victoria boy, who slipped to the canvas and upon arising was struck by the Nanaimo fighter before he had left his knees. Referee Piper immediately stopped the fight and awarded the contest to Sherwood. During the time the fight was in progress Sherwood, who was making his first appearance in the ring, fought very creditably, and it looked as he would have won with a knock-out where he could use his left hand to advantage. At the end of the contest Judge Henderson, of Nanaimo, marked his paper in favor of Pollitt, while Judge Hatstone, of Duncan, marked his in favor of Fielding, and Tommy Moore, referee, rendered his decision in favor of Pollitt.

The other bout was between Petrie, of Nanaimo, and Young Warwick, of Duncan, which ended in the third round when Warwick had to retire after hurting his arm. Warwick up till the time he retired had the fight well in hand and was administering considerable punishment to his flashy Nanaimo opponent.

BRASSIE HINTS

Now that Fall is fast approaching, a survey of the details of our game may not be amiss. With the coming of cold weather, a tendency to tighten up is observed in the swing. One cannot be as free in heavy clothing as in the light-weight clothes of summer. To overcome this tightness as much as possible, I suggest a little shorter grip on the woods. The club should be held just loose enough for the hands to do their work. The fingers should be firm but you should relax the arms and body in order to feel the clubhead. If your life is bad, a tighter grip is recommended, especially where the ground is hard. Otherwise the clubhead is likely to turn in your hands, giving you a hook or a slice. Watch your stance and the position of your hands. It is a good idea to say to yourself, "hold your hands a little lower and keep them there." The left hand especially must be in a position where the wrist is turned up. Check over these points with a good professional and make sure you are right—then go ahead. Keep in mind the straight three feet in front of the ball, on the imaginary direction line. Make your clubhead travel along this line, keeping the clubhead at right angles to the line of flight.

Cumberland Net Two More Points In Coast Match

Winners Show Manifest Superiority Over Ladysmith Although Play Was Interesting Throughout

Winners Do Early Scoring

CUMBERLAND, Oct. 19.—Two more points were added to Cumberland's Pacific Coast League total here yesterday when the fast-stepping Ladysmith squad fell by the wayside after a hard but vain attempt to give the locals their first defeat in the new league. The score was four goals to two. Cumberland scored twice in the first half and two in the second. Both were fine shots but Ladysmith's goalkeeper, who had been able to save them if the defence had not shut off his view by crowding the goal mouth.

Cumberland scored all four goals before the visitors managed to cop their first—two in the first half and the other two came early in the second period. Plump converted first. Graham scored numbers two and three, and Brake headed in Hitchens' corner kick for the fourth. On the whole, it was a game filled with interest for the spectators, but Cumberland's superiority was evident all the way through.

Cumberland has now made seven starts in the league and has won six consecutively. Their first game with St. Andrew's, of Vancouver, was a two-goal draw. Today's game almost clinches the league for the local team.

Naval Team Enters Wednesday Soccer

Six Teams Now In Will Insure Full Schedule—Game on Thanksgiving Day

When the Naval soccer team cast their lot with the Wednesday Football League last night, they brought the number of teams competing for the championship to six, thereby eliminating the bye that would have been necessary with only five teams. When Mr. Day, Naval delegate, made known his intention of entering a team, he was the recipient of heavy applause from the delegates present. This makes the Naval number of teams in the mid-week soccer loop since its formation here some years ago.

The draw announced for this week is as follows:
Tillmans vs. Rennie & Taylor, at Beacon Hill; referee, Alcock. Garrison vs. Hudson's Bay, Work Point; referee, Oliver. Navy vs. Kirkhams, at Central Pavilion.
Exhibition Game
On Thanksgiving Day the pick of the mid-week league will play the pick of the Victoria Juniors. At last night's meeting the latter boys' team was represented by Mr. P. C. Payne, well-known local sportsman. The ground for this fixture will be announced in due time, but in all probability the game will be played at Beacon Hill.

All games are timed to start at 3 o'clock.

Sportive Punches

By the "Old 'Un"

A kind correspondent (there are some such) asks the Old 'Un to write again on the subject of the misnaming of animals in Canada. It evidently jars on him to hear the birds and beasts misnamed, and it certainly is a pity.

It makes us appear ignorant to other people who have lived and traveled and hunted and observed Nature in other countries who hear us talk of pheasant or partridge-shooting, for instance, and find we refer to sport with ruffed grouse, or listen to our account of the habits of the rabbit and find we are talking about a hare.

Our correspondent gives a list of a few misnamed creatures which occur in him—elk, mountain goat, robin, sparrow hawk, buzzard, hawk, hawk, or eagle, blacktail (as used in the interior), Jack rabbit, (and he thinks the entire use of the word "rabbit").

The Old 'Un had thought that the little cottontail (?) which he had bagged in limited numbers in the Kootenay were true rabbits, as distinguished from the Jack or snowshoe rabbits (so-called), but is open to correction.

He is afraid, however, that he is quite unable to give, as asked, a full and correct list of these misnomers and confusions.

Besides, what's the use? Even when you observe and name correctly a rock, covey, heron, eagle, skunk or company (whichever word is right) of turkey-buzzards, for instance, which is the recognized popular (though slightly incorrect) name of the species of American vulture, Cathartes aura, someone is sure to arise and state with emphasis that you are doubtless mistaken.

And that what you really saw was a flock of cranes, crows, cormorants, or something equally dissimilar.

And, if you should really see, and hear, a flock of cranes traveling overhead in wedge-shaped formation on business of their own you are pretty sure to be informed that they were not cranes at all, but geese.

Speaking of turkey-buzzards, no doubt so-called from their slight resemblance about the head to a turkey and their malarial, moaning flight somewhat like that of a large hawk, the Old 'Un knows from personal experience that they ARE sometimes seen in large companies.

He has himself seen a small cloud of them over the Sooke district, between Pender Bay and Sooke Harbor. And he has seen the branches of a dead tree in that district practically covered with them. And to this he will make affidavit any time.

Because he verified their nature not merely by sight. He shot one once to obtain a close-up identification. (An unjustifiable thing to do, perhaps, and it nearly led to his being potted himself.) But that is another story. (Hope R. K. has no copyright on that phrase.)

He can also testify to the fact that they do emit a noise—a kind of hissing noise, as the Cyclopaedia states—though possibly it might be inaudible to some ears (as is the shrill note of the bat), especially if the observer happened to be a trifle deaf.

Turkey-buzzards used to be a common sight in the EAST SOOKE district some years ago, and may be yet, though the Old 'Un has had no opportunity of personally verifying that fact recently.

One thing sure, if you speak of a turkey-buzzard, nobody who knows the beast will think you mean anything else, however incorrectly formed this popular name may be. But to call a grouse a pheasant, or a hare a rabbit, well that's something different.

It worries a lot of us who have not the philosophical nature of the country estate agent, who, when in doubt as to the classification of live freight, referred to his book of rates to solve all puzzles. You remember?

"Cats is dogs and rabbits is dogs, and squirrels in cages is parrots. But a tortoise is a insect and travels free!"

Dazzy Vance of Brooklyn Acclaimed Leading Pitcher

Has Overwhelming Victory in Voting by Big League Baseball Players—Vote for Second Team Pitcher Widely Scattered, With Luque in Lead

(Copyright, 1925, by North American Newspaper Alliance)

Editor's Note.—This is the third of a series of articles giving the vote by which the players of the two big leagues picked their league teams.

The vote for the leading pitcher in the National League by the players of the league for the All-National League team was an overwhelming victory for Arthur "Dazzy" Vance, of Brooklyn. This was to be expected in view of his wonderful performance during the season. Out of 111 votes he received 100 for first choice.

The vote for second team pitcher was widely scattered among thirteen nominees. Luque, of the Reds, led with thirty-eight votes. Meadows, of the Pirates, was next with seventeen. Others were: Riley, Cincinnati, nine; Alexander, eight; Donahue, six; Shire, St. Louis, four; Aldridge, four; Benton, two; Grimes, Brooklyn, two; Pete Donahue, of the Reds, was the third string selection with eighteen votes. Meadows was next with seventeen; Luque, twelve; Aldridge, seven; Riley, six; Shirdell, three; Alexander, of the Cubs, two.

Catchers Were Even

No man in the National League received a majority of the votes for catcher. Gabby Hartnett, of the Chicago Cubs, led for first choice with thirty-two votes. Taylor, of Brooklyn, followed with twenty, and Wilson, nineteen. Snyder, of the Giants, was voted for by twelve players, and O'Farrell, of St. Louis, drew thirteen. Others with lesser numbers of votes were: Hargreaves, of the Reds, Smith and Gonzales.

In the matter of second choice Hartnett led with twenty-five votes. Wilson and O'Farrell were tied with thirteen each; Smith, twelve; Hargreaves, eleven; Snyder, eight; Henline, six; Taylor, five; Gonzales, four.

Hartnett drew fourteen votes for third choice, leading the field of thirteen catchers among whom the remaining votes were rather evenly divided.

While the players' vote for All-League catcher was split among many favorites, it nevertheless made clear that Hartnett is easily the choice of the league for the All-National post.

Hartnett duplicates his triumph of last year, when he was elected to the players' All-League team and chosen again by McGraw for his All-American combine.

In Vance and Hartnett, all experts will agree, there is an All-National battery that is well nigh invincible.

American League Selections

The decided trend of opinion among the National League players in their selection of Vance for the All-National team was not so strikingly shown by the American League players, in their choice of Walter Johnson, of the Senators, as first choice pitcher of the All-American League combine.

Out of 109 votes cast, Sir Walter received sixty-six. His team mate, Coveleskie, followed with sixteen; Rommel, of the Athletics, thirteen; Herb Pennock, the Yankee twirler, eight; Gray, four; Lyons, three.

Twenty-four of the league players picked Johnson for second choice as against thirty-two for Rommel. Coveleskie also appeared in the second column with twenty-four votes.

Pennock led the third choice field with nineteen votes and Coveleskie followed with eighteen. Others chosen for the third string pitchers were Lyons, Harris, Gray, Bush, Ruether, Whitehall, Dunne and Halaway.

Coveleskie Picks

Coveleskie, of the Athletics, was chosen All-American League catcher. He ran ahead of Johnson in the voting, having sixty-seven, or one more than the Senator's star twirler, Muddy Ruel, of the Senators, was in the running with twenty-four votes, followed by Ray Shalk, of the White Sox, seventeen; Bengough, two; Blatter, one.

Of the seven catchers named for second choice, Ruel led with forty-four votes. Coveleskie had twenty-one; Shalk, fifteen; Basler, nine; Bengough, Perkins and Severid had a small number each.

Shalk was the leading man for third choice with thirty-eight votes against twenty-eight for Basler, of the Tigers. Others and the number of votes received were: Ruel, twenty-four; Bengough, nine; Coveleskie, six; Myatt, two; Severid, one.

Comparing the vote this year for the All-American battery with that made by the players last year, the first poll ever taken, shows that Walter Johnson, Ruel and Lawler all lost in the present showing. Last year Johnson received ninety-six first choice and fourteen second choice votes. Ruel an eleven were tied for the lead in first choice votes, which Ruel won by reason of the number of second and third choice votes cast for him. In this year's vote neither catcher was a serious contender for Coveleskie's place as All-American League first choice.

It is proof of the care and interest taken in the All-League balloting by the players in their second annual vote for the All-League teams.

President Poses for Portrait

SENATOR DANDURAND
Of Canada, Newly-Elected President of the Assembly of the League of Nations, Poses for a Portrait Bust by Felix Bénéteau, French Sculptor.

political control. The fight for lower rates on westbound freight had been started by Sir Richard McBride, Premier of British Columbia in 1906, and had been later carried on by the Conservative Governments in this Province. In 1920, largely through the action of the Vancouver
Board of Trade, Premier Oliver had been asked to renew the old agitation to secure better treatment.
In the Fall of the same year, Mr.
Meighen, the Conservative Prime Minister in Ottawa, had passed an order-in-council to the effect that the principle of equalization of rates between Eastern and Western Canada be now recognized, and the Railway Board was instructed by the Conservative Government at that time to begin investigations of the rates structure with that end in view. It was not until the Winter of 1922 that Mr. G. G. McGeer was hired by Premier Oliver as rates counsel for British Columbia. In the same year a reduction of twenty per cent had been made in westbound rates and this had been followed by a further reduction of ten per cent. Both decreases, Mr. Ladner said, owed their origin to the order-in-council passed by the Conservative Government.

When the Crow's Nest Pass agreement had been put into force again in 1924, chaos had resulted in rates all over Canada. The Government had been compelled to act and last June the Government had brought down an act to amend the Railway Act. The clauses contained therein had been wide enough to give low rates on flour and grain both east and west. Mr. Meighen and the Conservative Party had been favorably impressed with the measure and had decided to let it go. Mr. Graham, Minister of Railways, however, had amended it by inserting the words
"within the territory," meaning it would apply to only the territory coming within the meaning of the Crow's Nest Pass agreement. The bill as amended passed despite Conservative opposition.

Doubts Sincerity
On June 9 Premier Oliver had condemned the Government's action and had declared that it could only be construed to mean the continuation of discrimination against British Columbia. He did not object to the re-establishment of the low Crow's Nest Pass rates eastward, so long as the same rates were applied westward.

"That," said Mr. Ladner, "is exactly the policy of the Conservative Party. It is not Premier Oliver's, however, for he is now supporting the King Government."

The only change in the situation since June, the speaker went on, was the Railway Board's order giving lower rates on westbound grain and flour, but equalization had not been obtained. Mr. Ladner charged Mackenzie King with insincerity in regard to his position on West coast rates, and quoted from Hansard questions asked by himself during the last session of the House of Commons and replied to by the Prime Minister. Mr. Ladner had asked that in the event of British Columbia appealing from an adverse ruling by the Railway Board would the Government set aside any ruling of the board which would increase rates to Vancouver beyond the present rate of 22 1/2 cents, and would the Government favor the fixing of a rate on grain moving from the prairies to the Pacific Coast ports at a rate equal to the present Crow's Nest rate on eastbound grain, so that the present rate of 22 1/2 cents from Calgary would become eighteen cents.
Mr. Mackenzie King had replied, according to Hansard: "If my honorable friend is referring to the proper reply to give to hypothetical questions, I will say to him that I should not wish at this moment to answer."

"Is there sincerity in that man's reply?" asked Mr. Ladner.

Somebody in the audience answered with a vigorous "No!"
At the Crow's Roads
"Canada is at the cross roads, with the signs apparently pointing north and south, instead of east and west, as the Conservative Party desires,"
Mr. H. Despard Twigg, M.P.P., remarked in opening. There were four dominant features at the election:
Senate reform, immigration, freight rates, and the fiscal policy. Mr. Twigg observed, and in the first case he declared that little had been heard of Senate reform, owing to the dislike of the Province of Quebec, whose members told Mr. Mackenzie King that it did not want it.

On immigration he asked what had the Government done? "What has happened to those immigrants who were to come in?" (Voices: No Chinese!) Mr. Twigg remarking, stated they all knew there were not getting industrialists, professional men, clerks, skilled labor, for there was no room for those classes, but unfortunately men of the type he had seen in Winnipeg, Germans still wearing the caps in which they had done battle against the Allies. Those were the people who had been enticed under the Mackenzie King administration. "The better class of immigrants whom we would welcome are knocking at the doors of America, clamoring to be let in. Why?
Because we have no ground ready. If you assist the return of the Conservatives on October 29 you will help them to prepare this Canada for the proper class of immigrants." (Applause.)
"What is of far more importance is to keep our people here, and for the others, you cannot get immigrants to come to a barren country," Mr.
Twigg remarked.

Freight Rates
On the freight rates case he declared "this attempt to stir up fealing between Conservatives and Liberals in the province, whose attitude on the matter must be of common interest in a question of that character."
They all wanted freight rates which were fair and reasonable to British Columbia (Applause). He regretted

"this crazy political campaign on freight rates, instead of which Conservatives and Liberals should get together and push this thing to a proper finish."

Fiscal Policy
Touching on the fiscal policy, Mr.
Twigg asserted that he had failed to find the Liberal fiscal policy. "Mr.
Ladner says it is a tariff for revenue purposes. I do not know what that means, for any tariff must be for revenue, as all revenue goes into the Government funds. Conservatives, in addition, desire a revenue for properly protecting our industries, so in supporting us you get both. On October 29 I ask you to assist us in making Canada a nation, to give it a nationality so that it may not be driven, as it is being driven now socially, economically, but I trust never politically

A little higher in price, but—what a wonderful difference just a few cents make.

into the arms of our cousin to the south of the line, who sometimes are too astute for us." (Applause).
"Canada is a country just as good as theirs. We should seek to do everything to develop nationhood, and in developing that nationhood save ourselves from falling out of that great community of nations, the British Empire." (Applause).

Mr. H. R. Savage was chairman of the meeting.

Neighbors Save Fox Farm Pens

Outbreak Occurs at Messrs. Higgs & Sons' Premises on Galiano Island

GALIANO, Oct. 19.—What might have been a serious fire at the Haven Fur & Feather Farm was fortunately averted by the barking of the dogs in the small hours of Monday morning, October 19. Speedy assistance came from many kindly neighbors.

Being awakened by the noise, Mr. Miller Higgs and his sons were horrified to see that their property just in the rear of the fox pens was ablaze, and hastily ran to the scene of the conflagration. There they found that alone they could do little for the fire had evidently been burning some time and the situation looked very serious, as the flames steadily were creeping towards the fox enclosure and the barn.

A number of surrounding residents were hastily notified while Mr. Miller Higgs did his best to keep the fire in check.

In a short time willing help arrived. Eleven men were upon the scene, and steadily fought the flames for some hours, succeeding in getting the blaze under control.

The outbreak evidently occurred through the smoldering embers of a loggers' camp fire in the woods where some timber was being cut on the previous Saturday. Messrs. Higgs wish publicly to convey to the following their most grateful thanks for the very willing and timely help given: Messrs. T. and A. Bellhouse, Burdett, Franz, Gray, Harford, Kingsmill and Thomas.

McPherson, Mrs. Lafortune, Mrs. J. Lafortune, Mrs. W. Reason and Miss Rosie Barry.

Respected Resident of Somenos Passes On

DUNCAN, Oct. 19.—The passing of Mrs. Mary Leabell, Holt Wilson, whose death took place at the family residence, "Polkith," Somenos, early last evening, will leave a void that is much felt throughout the district. For a quiet, unassuming manner she did much towards promoting the interests of the community and was an active worker of St. Mary's Anglican Church. The deepest sympathy goes out to the family in their sad bereavement.

Her daughters, Miss Amy Wilson, who has been attending university in Toronto; Mrs. W. E. Corfield, of Duncan; Mrs. G. T. Corfield, Jr., of Courtenay; and her son, Mr. A. Holt Wilson, now of Gordon Head, were with her at the last. Her son, Mr. M. Holt Wilson, of Sea View, Alta., is expected to arrive in Duncan today.

Deceased was sixty-nine years of age and was the widow of the late Rev. T. Holt Wilson. The funeral will be held tomorrow (Tuesday) at 2 p.m., from "Polkith," Somenos, to St. Mary's Church, Somenos, where interment will take place.

Sidney Social News

SIDNEY, Oct. 19.—A successful dance was held in Reginald Hall on Friday last by the "Eternal Two." Grand orchestra furnished excellent music, which was enjoyed by about 100 dancers. Dainty refreshments were served by a committee of ladies, while the music during the supper interval was provided by radio.

Miss Bernice Brethour, who has been visiting with relations in Sidney, has returned to Victoria.

Mr. Ashley Gliman, of Vancouver, has been spending the week with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Gliman, Second Street.

Mr. R. Byrne, of New York, has arrived in Sidney and accepted a position in the Sidney Mills.

Campaign Meeting Held at Cowichan

Conservative Candidate Speaks on Economic and Industrial Subjects

COWICHAN STATION, Oct. 19.—Mr. C. H. Dickie, the Conservative standard-bearer for the Nanaimo riding at the forthcoming Federal election, held a campaign meeting in the C.A.A.C. Hall Friday night.

Considering the weather conditions there was a good attendance and Mr. H. P. Tooker occupied the chair. The first speaker was Mr. C. F. Davis, M.P.P., who dealt chiefly with the question of freight rates.

He was followed by Captain Matheson, who gave a most interesting and instructive address, dealing principally with the tariff, a main issue in the election.

The chairman then introduced Mr. Dickie, who spoke at some length on the economic and industrial questions, treating these subjects in his usual masterly manner.

The St. Andrew's branch of the W. A. met at Mrs. Sherman's house, Cowichan Bay, Friday afternoon, for the usual monthly meeting, eleven members being present. A lending library was formed; many topics were discussed and plans made for the furtherance of the work of the branch. Mrs. C. Gillson read a most comprehensive and interesting report on the Dominion Board meeting in Vancouver, and tea was served by the hostess and Mrs. Cockhutt.

The pheasant shooting season opened on October 15, the weather conditions being most favorable, but the birds were scarce, and as a rule poor bags were the result.

Mrs. McConnell has returned to her home after being absent for some weeks visiting friends and relatives in Vancouver and Victoria.

Plans Made for Dance

METHUEN, Oct. 19.—The arrangements are complete for the concert and dance to be held at the hall, Friday, October 23, at 8 p.m., in celebration of the Methuen's Women's Institute's sixteenth birthday. An excellent concert programme has been drawn up and Pitt's orchestra will supply the dance music.

To Report on Meeting

COLWOOD, Oct. 19.—A meeting of the Colwood Women's Institute will be held Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 in the Colwood Hall. A report of the recent conference held in Victoria will be given. This will be followed by a demonstration on the art of making wax flowers.

Copious Oil Poured on Troubled Waters of City Council

Oil in copious quantities was last night poured on the troubled City Council waters. The proposal to drain and clean Goddard Lake, advanced this time by the health committee, was passed by the council without dissent.

City Comptroller Macdonald said that the $1,500 necessary for this purpose was available under Vote 165.

To Alderman Marchant, who resigned last week from the chairmanship of the parks committee because of the council's rejection of the same proposal, Mayor Pendray expressed regret that a misunderstanding had occurred.

Everything, therefore, for the time being, is peace and harmony.

"Is this a jungle scene?" asked the slightly uncertain individual at a movie. "No," replied his friend. "You are looking at the picture through the foliage of a woman's hat."

Although his original French scholarship called for a prize of $100 annually to the student making the highest marks in first-year French, this year the college made the award to Miss Janet Skelton, third highest, owing to the fact that the two leading students, Miss Velma Bucklin and Mr. E. Vivion, spoke French fluently before entering the college. So the award was made in triplicate, His Honor

Eemdyk Will Be Drydocked, Ship Performs Brilliant Salvaging Feat Here for Survey of Damage

Ss. Salvage King Pulls Huge Freighters Off Rocks of Bentinck Island—Vessel Will Be Docked This Morning for Underwriters' and Owners' Survey

The Holland-America steamer Eemdyk is off the rocks of Bentinck Island. The Pacific Salvage Company's steamer, Salvage King, pulled the vessel from her stranded position at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, after 1,500 tons of cargo, comprising chiefly copper ingots, had been lightered and stored at the Outer Wharf.

The Eemdyk is now lying at anchor in Esquimalt harbor, with her leaks all patched up. She will be drydocked by Yarrows Ltd., this morning, and will be surveyed by the underwriters and representatives of the owners. Following the survey it will be decided whether repairs will be called for the repair work.

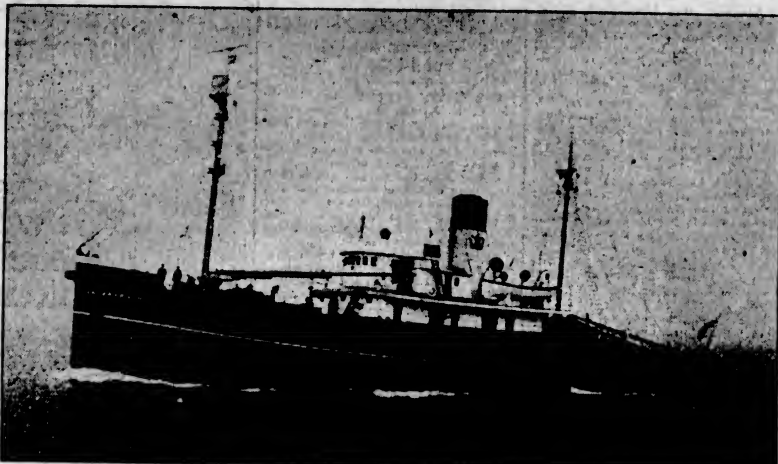

Apparently the damage is confined chiefly to the starboard side. She is listed over to that side about fifteen degrees. So far the only damage that is known to exist is crumpled plates below the bilge keel on the starboard side forward and a buckled forepeak.

In hauling the Eemdyk off the rocks of Bentinck Island the Ss.

Salvage King performed her second salvaging feat since she was commissioned for this work. She was built on the Clyde last Spring at a cost of $250,000 and is the best equipped salvaging vessel in any part of the world.

Her powerful towing equipment of the latest type played an important part in the hauling of the huge freighter off the rocks. The Salvage King floated H. M. C. S. Armentera from Pipestem inlet on Saturday morning and rushed to the scene of the Eemdyk wreck in time to take a pull at the vessel at high tide, which rose to a height of eight feet two inches yesterday, two feet higher than at the time the vessel went ashore.

The naval patrol boats H.M.C.S. Thiepval and Armentera will not be sent to the West Coast this winter on patrol work, it was learned here yesterday. It is quite probable that one of the Pacific Salvage Company's steamers will be stationed at Bamfield during the winter months to answer any distress signals sent out by helpless ships.

In pulling the freighter Eemdyk off the rocks of Bentinck Island, the Salvage King completed her second salvage task since she was built for the Pacific Salvage Company on the Clyde at a cost of $250,000. The vessel's latest type of towing machinery played an important part in the hard pull to free the Eemdyk.

Local Yard May Lose Work on Schooner Eric

Duty of Thirty-Three and a Third Per Cent Imposed by Customs on Equipment for Sailing Ship

Outfitting Here for Cruise

The strict enforcement of the regulations covering the admission of equipment from the United States needed for the conversion of the British schooner Eric, purchased in the United States, may force Vice-Admiral Sir Guy Carleton, K.C.M.G., C.B., a member of the Imperial House of Commons, to take the vessel away from Esquimalt to Seattle to be completed. Sir Guy is anxious to have the work done here under the British flag because he has a feeling that this is the right thing to do. He, however, says that he is not going to pay an extra thirty-three and a third per cent for bringing the equipment in here. Yarrows Limited, who gave the contract for outfitting the boat for a world cruise.

A committee of the Chamber of Commerce, with Captain George McGregor, is making an investigation and communicating with Ottawa in the matter. It is hoped something can be done to allow the spending of the necessary money on the labor entailed at Yarrows' shipyard, where the schooner is tied up.

Situation Explained
Sir Guy met the Chamber of Commerce directors yesterday at noon and explained the situation. In no uncertain way he placed the matter fairly before them. He had for a long time wanted to find a vessel such as he had been able to pick up on the other side of the line. She was a schooner, registered at Cowes, Isle of Wight, and of 600 tons burden. She was just what he wanted for touring about the world and accordingly bought her.

Believing that British money should be spent on a British bottom in British Dominions, he brought the schooner here to convert her to his needs. He had before him three courses. He could load her up and send her with a cargo to the Orient, where cheap labor would be available.

President Madison Reported Due Here Early This Morning

BRINGING a passenger list of approximately 300, and a cargo valued at $4,000,000, including $2,500,000 in silk, the Admiral Oriental liner President Madison is reported due at William Head quarantine station at 7 o'clock this morning. After securing pratique she will dock at the Outer Wharf about 8:30 o'clock.

Way Out Wanted

He had found the Customs officials here very courteous, but nothing could be done to help him out. He had brought a Canadian engine, a Fairbanks Morse, and would install that here. He was also getting a power launch built here, and then would bring the engine, the required, when brought in from the other side, would entail the added per centage being paid.

If there was any way in which this could be overcome or by which he could proceed with the work on the understanding that he would get a rebate on the duty, he would do the work here.

Capt. McGregor felt that the ship, being a British bottom, and in view of the fact that the vessel would not be kept here but would proceed as soon as finished on a cruise to the Mediterranean Sea, there would be some way of overcoming the difficulty.

Relief Fund Is Well Supported

Although the relief fund for the dependents of the seven men drowned in the Hope tugboat disaster, last Saturday night, was only begun yesterday several donations have already been made, and when the subscription lists are placed in the various banks and newspaper offices it is believed that the citizens of Victoria will respond generously to the petition for relief for the six widows, most of whom have been left with families of children ranging from one to six years of age.

The city started the relief fund by donating $250, while the Armistice Period Committee donated $100, swelling the fund to $350. At the executive meeting of the Canadian Legion last night it was decided to recommend to the general meeting of the association that the sum of $50 be donated to the fund started by the city.

Major J. C. Pendray for the widows of the victims of the tugboat disaster. This will bring the total to $400.

Chinese Leper Will Be Taken To Lazaretto

William Head Quarantine Officials to Bring Chinaman Down From Nanaimo Within Next Two Days

Was Selling Vegetables

Dr. H. Cox, of William Head quarantine station, announced last night that another Chinese victim of leprosy had been interned in the Bentinck Island lazaretto within the next two days.

The Chinaman, who was a vegetable vendor, afflicted with leprosy in advanced stages, was discovered, at South Wellington yesterday. The case was discovered when a boy was about to purchase some vegetables from a Chinese dealer and was warned by another Chinese not to touch them as the dealer was a sick man. The boy's provincial police and the medical officer at Nanaimo for examination.

Dr. McPhee, in consultation with other physicians, pronounced the case to be one of leprosy in advanced stages and the victim medical officer to a shack under medical attendance until officials from the William Head quarantine station arrive and take him to the leper colony on Bentinck Island.

McCoy's Cod Liver Extract Tablets Fine for Thin Underdeveloped Kids

Children Love Them Because They Are Sugar Coated and as Easy to Take as Candy

It's your duty. Mother, to see that the frail, "spiked," sickly youngster grows up to be strong in body, keen in mind and robust in health. Extracted from the livers of the lowly codfish are the health, weight and strength producing vitamins that are found in McCoy's Cod Liver Extract Tablets, which are sold by pharmacists all over North and South America.

Doctors know about them and so do you. You know that McCoy's Cod Liver Extract Tablets are fine for your children. And if your children need building up ask for these tablets today if you want to give your loved ones a good appetite and put pounds of good healthy flesh on their bones. But be sure and get McCoy's.

They are not expensive—40 tablets—40 cents. And if you are not pleased with the improvement after 30 days—your money back.

A very sickly child, age 9, gained 12 pounds in seven months and is strong and healthy.

One skinny woman gained 9 pounds in 24 days.

Seven New Treaties To Safeguard Peace Handed Weary Europe

taking note of the abrogation of the treaties for the neutralization of Belgium and conscious of the necessity of insuring peace in the area which has so frequently been the scene of European conflict, animated also with the sincere desire of giving to all the signatory powers concerned supplementary guarantees within the framework of the League of Nations and the treaties in force between them, have determined to conclude a treaty with these objects, and have appointed as their plenipotentiaries (the plenipotentiaries with their titles are named here), who, having communicated their full powers, found in good and due form, have agreed as follows:

Versailles Boundaries Guaranteed
"Article 1. The high contracting parties collectively and severally guarantee, in the manner provided in the following articles, the maintenance of the territorial status quo resulting from the frontiers between Germany

TELLS DYSEPTICS WHAT TO EAT

Avoid Indigestion, Sour Acid Stomach, Heartburn, Gas on Stomach, Etc.

Indigestion and practically all forms of stomach trouble, as medical authorities are now fully aware, are due to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach. Chronic "acid stomach" is exceedingly dangerous and sufferers should do either one of two things:—
Either they can buy up a huge and often disagreeable diet, avoiding food that disagrees with them, that irritates the stomach and lead to excess acid secretion, or they can eat as they please in reason and make it a practice to counteract the effect of the harmful acid and prevent the formation of gas, mucus or premature fermentation by the use of a little Bismarck's Magnesia at their meals.
There is probably no better, safer or more reliable stomach aid than Bismarck's Magnesia and it is widely used for this purpose. It has no direct action on the stomach and is not a detergent. But a teaspoonful of the powder or a couple of five grain tablets taken in a little water with the food will neutralize the excess acidity which may be present and prevent its further formation. This removes the whole cause of the trouble and the stomach digest naturally and healthily without need of cathartic pills or artificial stimulants. (Advt.)
Bismarck's Magnesia is a fine white powder or tablet. It never comes as a lump, milk or cream. It is not a laxative. Try this plan and what you eat at your next meal and see if this isn't the best advice you ever had on "what to eat." (Advt.)

Try these wonderful tablets for 30 days and if your frail, puny child don't greatly benefit—get your money back.

A very sickly child, age 9; gained 13 pounds in 7 months.

and Belgium, and between Germany and France and the inviolability of the said frontiers as fixed by, or in pursuance of, the treaty of peace signed at Versailles on the 28th of June, 1919, and also the observance of the stipulations Article 43 or 43 of the said treaty concerning the demilitarized zone.

No More War Promised

"Article 2. Germany and Belgium and also Germany and France mutually undertake that they will in no case attack or invade each other or resort to war against each other."

This stipulation, it is declared, shall not, however, apply in the case of:

(1) The right of legitimate defence such as resistance to a violation of territory or a flagrant breach of Article 42 or 43 of the Versailles Treaty;

(2) Action in pursuance of Article 16 of the covenant;

(3) Action by reason of a decision of the assembly or council of the League.

Agree to Arbitration

Article 3 provides that Germany and Belgium and Germany and France undertake to settle by peaceful means all questions which may arise between them and which it may not be possible to settle by diplomacy; where a conflict arises as to their respective rights the question shall be submitted to judicial decision; all other questions to a conciliation commission.

If the commission's proposals are acceptable, the question will be taken before the council of the League.

In Cases of Aggression

Article 4 deals with the violation of Article 2 of the present treaty or a breach of the Versailles Treaty. In case of complaint of one state the question will be brought before the council of the League and if the council is satisfied that such violation has taken place, it will notify the various powers, who agree to come immediately to the assistance of the complaining power.

In case of a flagrant violation of Article 2 of the present treaty or of a flagrant breach of the Versailles Treaty, the contracting parties agree to come immediately to help of the party against whom such a violation or breach has been directed, as soon as they are satisfied that this is an unprovoked act of aggression, or that by reason either of the crossing of frontier or of the outbreak of hostilities or of the assembly of armed forces in the demilitarized zone immediate action is necessary.

Nevertheless, it is further provided, the council of the League, in accordance with the first paragraph of the Article, will issue its findings and the powers undertake to accept the recommendation of the council provided there is a concurrence of views.

Must Obey League

Article 5 sets forth that if one of the powers referred to in Article 3 refused to submit a dispute to peaceful settlement, or to comply with an arbitral or judicial decision, and commits a violation previously mentioned, the provisions of Article 4 shall apply. In case one of the powers, without committing a violation, refuses to submit a dispute to peaceful settlement or comply with an arbitral or judicial decision, the other party is to bring the matter before the council of the League; the council shall submit proposals, and the contracting parties shall comply with the proposal.

Earlier Agreements Stand

Article 6 states that the present treaty does not affect the rights and obligations of the contracting parties under the Versailles Treaty or under arrangements made thereto, including the agreements signed at London, August 30, 1924. (These agreements are comprised in the pact outlining ways and means for putting the Dawes reparations programme into effect.)

League Not Required

Article 7 reads: "The present treaty, which is designed to insure the maintenance of peace and is in conformity with the covenant of the League of Nations, shall not be interpreted as restricting the duty of the League to take whatever action may be deemed wise and effectual to safeguard the peace of the world."

Article 8 stipulates that the treaty shall be registered at the League of Nations; that it shall remain in force until the council, acting on a request of one or other of the high contracting parties notified to the other signatory powers three months in advance, and voting at least by a two-thirds majority, decides that the League of Nations insures sufficient protection. The treaty shall cease to have effect on the expiration of one year for each decision.

Dominions Not Affected

Article 9. "The treaty shall impose no obligation upon any of the British Dominions or upon India."

Article 10 provides for the ratification of the treaty, setting forth that it shall enter into force as soon as all the ratifications have been deposited and Germany has become a member of the League of Nations.

The Rt. Hon W.L. Mackenzie King Says ~ "We will give the West Equal Treatment Impartial Justice"

THE WEST MUST COME INTO ITS OWN

Put your trust in men who believe in the West's future—men who in Canada's darkest hour held out hope—men who believed in developing the West.

Under almost insurmountable difficulties, Canada faces the world today on the wave of industrial prosperity. She has met every debt on its due date to her foreign creditors—her dollar is the highest in the world. And the West flourishes. In the last four years, since Mackenzie King took the helm at Ottawa, the West has shown greater industrial development than in all her previous history.

This in the face of the cries of ruination and foreclosure from Meighen and Stevens in 1921. This in the face of the repudiation of Mr. Meighen by Canada's strongest Conservative journal, which styled his outlook at that time, "the whisper of death." And more than ever in the history of the West does the West need friends at Ottawa. Men who will stand in the councils of the nation afraid of no moneyed interests, no combines, no section of their party or rival city of the Dominion.

Such men are the Liberal Candidates. They know they will have the support of the leader of Canada's next Government, the Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King. For he has said throughout the country that there must be justice for every section.

The Liberal Candidates are pledged to secure absolute equalization of freights for the West. If it is necessary to make this a national issue in the House of Commons at Ottawa, they will do it.

G. G. McGeer, K.C., Liberal Candidate for Vancouver Centre, said recently:

"There is one Court where we can secure lasting and final justice, and that is the GREAT COURT OF PUBLIC OPINION, the Parliament of Canada."

Vote Liberal, and you will bring about Western development and prosperity for all.

"Our Tariff must have due regard for all parts of the country in its present stage of development," said Mackenzie King recently.

The Liberal tariff is a tariff primarily imposed for revenue. This tariff, which is a tax, should be as light as possible on the people.

Premier King says, "Especially do we believe that the instruments of production essential to the development of our basic industries and the necessities of life should be taxed as lightly as possible."

Country Suffers From Political Colic, He Says

Mr. W. G. Gaunce Claims Majority Government Prevented by Too Many Parties

Need of Voting Is Stressed

As long as there are many people remaining indifferent to the matter of electing themselves in the affairs of state and voting, and ambitious men who want to run on their own, this country will continue to suffer from political colic, Mr. W. G. Gaunce told members of the Victoria (Gyro) Club yesterday at its weekly luncheon in the Chamber of Commerce.

"Such a condition of affairs prevents government of the country by majority, and with a lot of parties having men in the field, and many candidates running on their own, only leads to one party swallowing up another party," Mr. Gaunce asserted.

The speaker expressed regret that there were so many people who did not exercise the franchise at elections. Some people did not register at all, while others who did register did not trouble to vote. In the last Provincial election, 226,000 voters were on the voters' list, and of that number only two-thirds went to the polls and voted. Mr. Gaunce stated that if this Dominion and provinces were to have good government, they must have it supported by a larger majority of people than at present obtains in the politics of British Columbia and Canada.

Citizens Should Vote

It was a matter of paramount importance to the welfare of this and other communities, he said, that citizens register and record their votes at the polls as they believed in their judgment was in the best interests of the country, and then stand honorably by the result.

Mr. Gaunce referred to the tendency of people to show lack of respect for those who governed, were elected, or were over them.

"Speak generously, honorably and respectfully of the men in power, whether they be aldermen, mayors or premiers," Mr. Gaunce concluded, amid applause.

Gyro Newton F. Pullen, of Vancouver, originator of the successful get-a-vote campaign conducted here several years ago by the Victoria Gyro Club, was given a hearty welcome at the luncheon, and appropriately acknowledged the general manager of the B. C. Telephone Company, Mr. Halse, chairman of the club's entertainment committee, rendered several delightful vocal solos, which were greatly enjoyed.

Loud Speakers Will Start

The Loud Speakers, the debating organization in the Gyro Club, will hold their first meeting of the season tonight at 8 o'clock at Room 204 Pemberton Block, for consideration of the Winter's programme, Gyro Eric Jones announced.

The winner of the attendance prize at yesterday's luncheon was Gyro Art Minnie.

Why is the Parker Duofold the most widely copied Pen in the World?

PROBABLY the highest tribute ever paid to any pen—is paid to the Parker Duofold by other pen manufacturers.

Their wide-spread imitation of this Parker classic is the frank admission in its superior excellence that we or the public could ask for.

If these other makers were able to sell their imitations as Parker prices, they might raise some question as to which is superior. But they cannot move all doubt for the public by offering their imitations at any price they can get.

Hand-size Grip, Over-size Ink Capacity, Free-swinging Balance, Invisible Filler, Ink-light Duofold Cap, and the soft-writing, smooth gliding 25-year guaranteed Point—that's Parker Duofold.

The only deceptive thing about pens that masquerade as the Parker Duofold is their color. Look and look carefully for this stamp on the barrel—'Geo. S. Parker—DUOFOLD'.

Members of the local club have been invited to attend the annual installation of officers of the Vancouver Gyro Club, which will take place on the Mainland Tuesday, October 27.

Girls Will Serve Five Years for Manslaughter

TORONTO, Oct. 19.—Three young women who caused the death of Matron Mrs. Margaret Mick, of the women's municipal jail farm, some months ago when they escaped from the institution, this morning, before Chief Justice Meredith, pleaded guilty to a charge of manslaughter and were given five years each in Portsmouth penitentiary. The girls' names are Jessie Carroll, Jennie McMin and Isabel Prouse. They admitted that in fighting with the matron to gain their liberty they set upon her while she lay on the floor. The verdict of the coroner's jury was that the death of Mrs. Mick had been due to strangulation.

Company Aids Fire Protection

B.C. Telephone Co. Officials Will Summon Firemen by Siren—Officials on Inspection

Co-operating with municipal authorities to improve the safeguards against fire, the B.C. Telephone Company has provided facilities in several Vancouver Island towns which will permit the telephone operators to ring the siren or siren in the fire hall in the event of a fire alarm being received. In this way the volunteer fire brigade of the community will be quickly summoned.

The towns of Sidney and Port Alberni are already provided with this new service, while Courtenay and Duncan exchanges are now being equipped. When an alarm is received by the telephone operator in these places, she will cause the siren or siren to sound in the fire hall. The operator will then remain ready to give the location of the fire by telephone to the first member of the volunteer brigade who arrives at the hall.

Announcement of this plan of co-operation between the telephone company and the municipalities was made yesterday upon the arrival in the city of Mr. G. H. Halse, president and general manager of the B. C. Telephone Company. Mr. Halse is here on one of his regular inspection tours of the Vancouver Island section of his company's system. He is accompanied by his son, Mr. J. S. Halse, and Mr. R. D. Bell, students in the traffic department of the company, and by Mr. N. F. Pullen, editor of "Telephone Talk," the monthly magazine published by the corporation.

Mr. Halse spent yesterday morning and afternoon in inspecting the exchanges adjacent to Victoria. The company's exchanges are of bungalow design with neatly-kept grounds, shrubs and shade trees add their charm. The appearance of the exchanges is a matter in which Mr. Halse takes a keen interest.

Tuberculous Veterans Receive Intelligence—Deprecate New "Ex-Service Body"

A general meeting of the members of the Tuberculous Veterans' Association was held in their quarters last night with President P. A. Stock in the chair. The meeting was well attended and several matters of urgent importance were discussed and dealt with.

A letter was received from T.V.A. headquarters in Ottawa advising the members of the probability that the Department of Soldiers' Re-establishment would soon be abolished, and replaced by the "Department of National Defence." This information was the cause of much discussion by the members, but it is not yet known how the change will affect the welfare of ex-service men and dependents.

The meeting expressed regret that a new association had invaded the city and were said to be collecting funds from citizens who are under the impression that this new ex-service body is the forerunner to Earl Hall's recent amalgamation scheme. It was therefore decided that the T.V.A. will endorse any action that the "Victoria Unity Committee" might adopt in this connection.

Port Warden Fees Same as Vancouver

Mr. A. Melville Dollar Tells of Controversy With Department on Question

The visit of Mr. A. Melville Dollar, of the Vancouver Board of Trade, to the city and his meeting with the Chamber of Commerce directors yesterday afforded the opportunity of discussing the situation with respect to the question of port warden's fees. The department at Ottawa has always recommended to the local chamber that the rates should be the same as those at Vancouver.

Yesterday Mr. Dollar was able to explain the situation as far as the Vancouver end was concerned. He pointed out that the Marine Department at Ottawa had, in turn, always impressed upon the Vancouver board that the fees as in force in Montreal ought to prevail in Vancouver.

Mr. Dollar said that this arrangement had been agreeable to his board provided the port warden of Vancouver was put on a salary basis as in Montreal and given a fair remuneration. Until that was done the fees as charged at Montreal would not give the warden a decent salary. It was agreed that the local chamber should recommend the same scale of port warden's fees as in the city of Vancouver.
